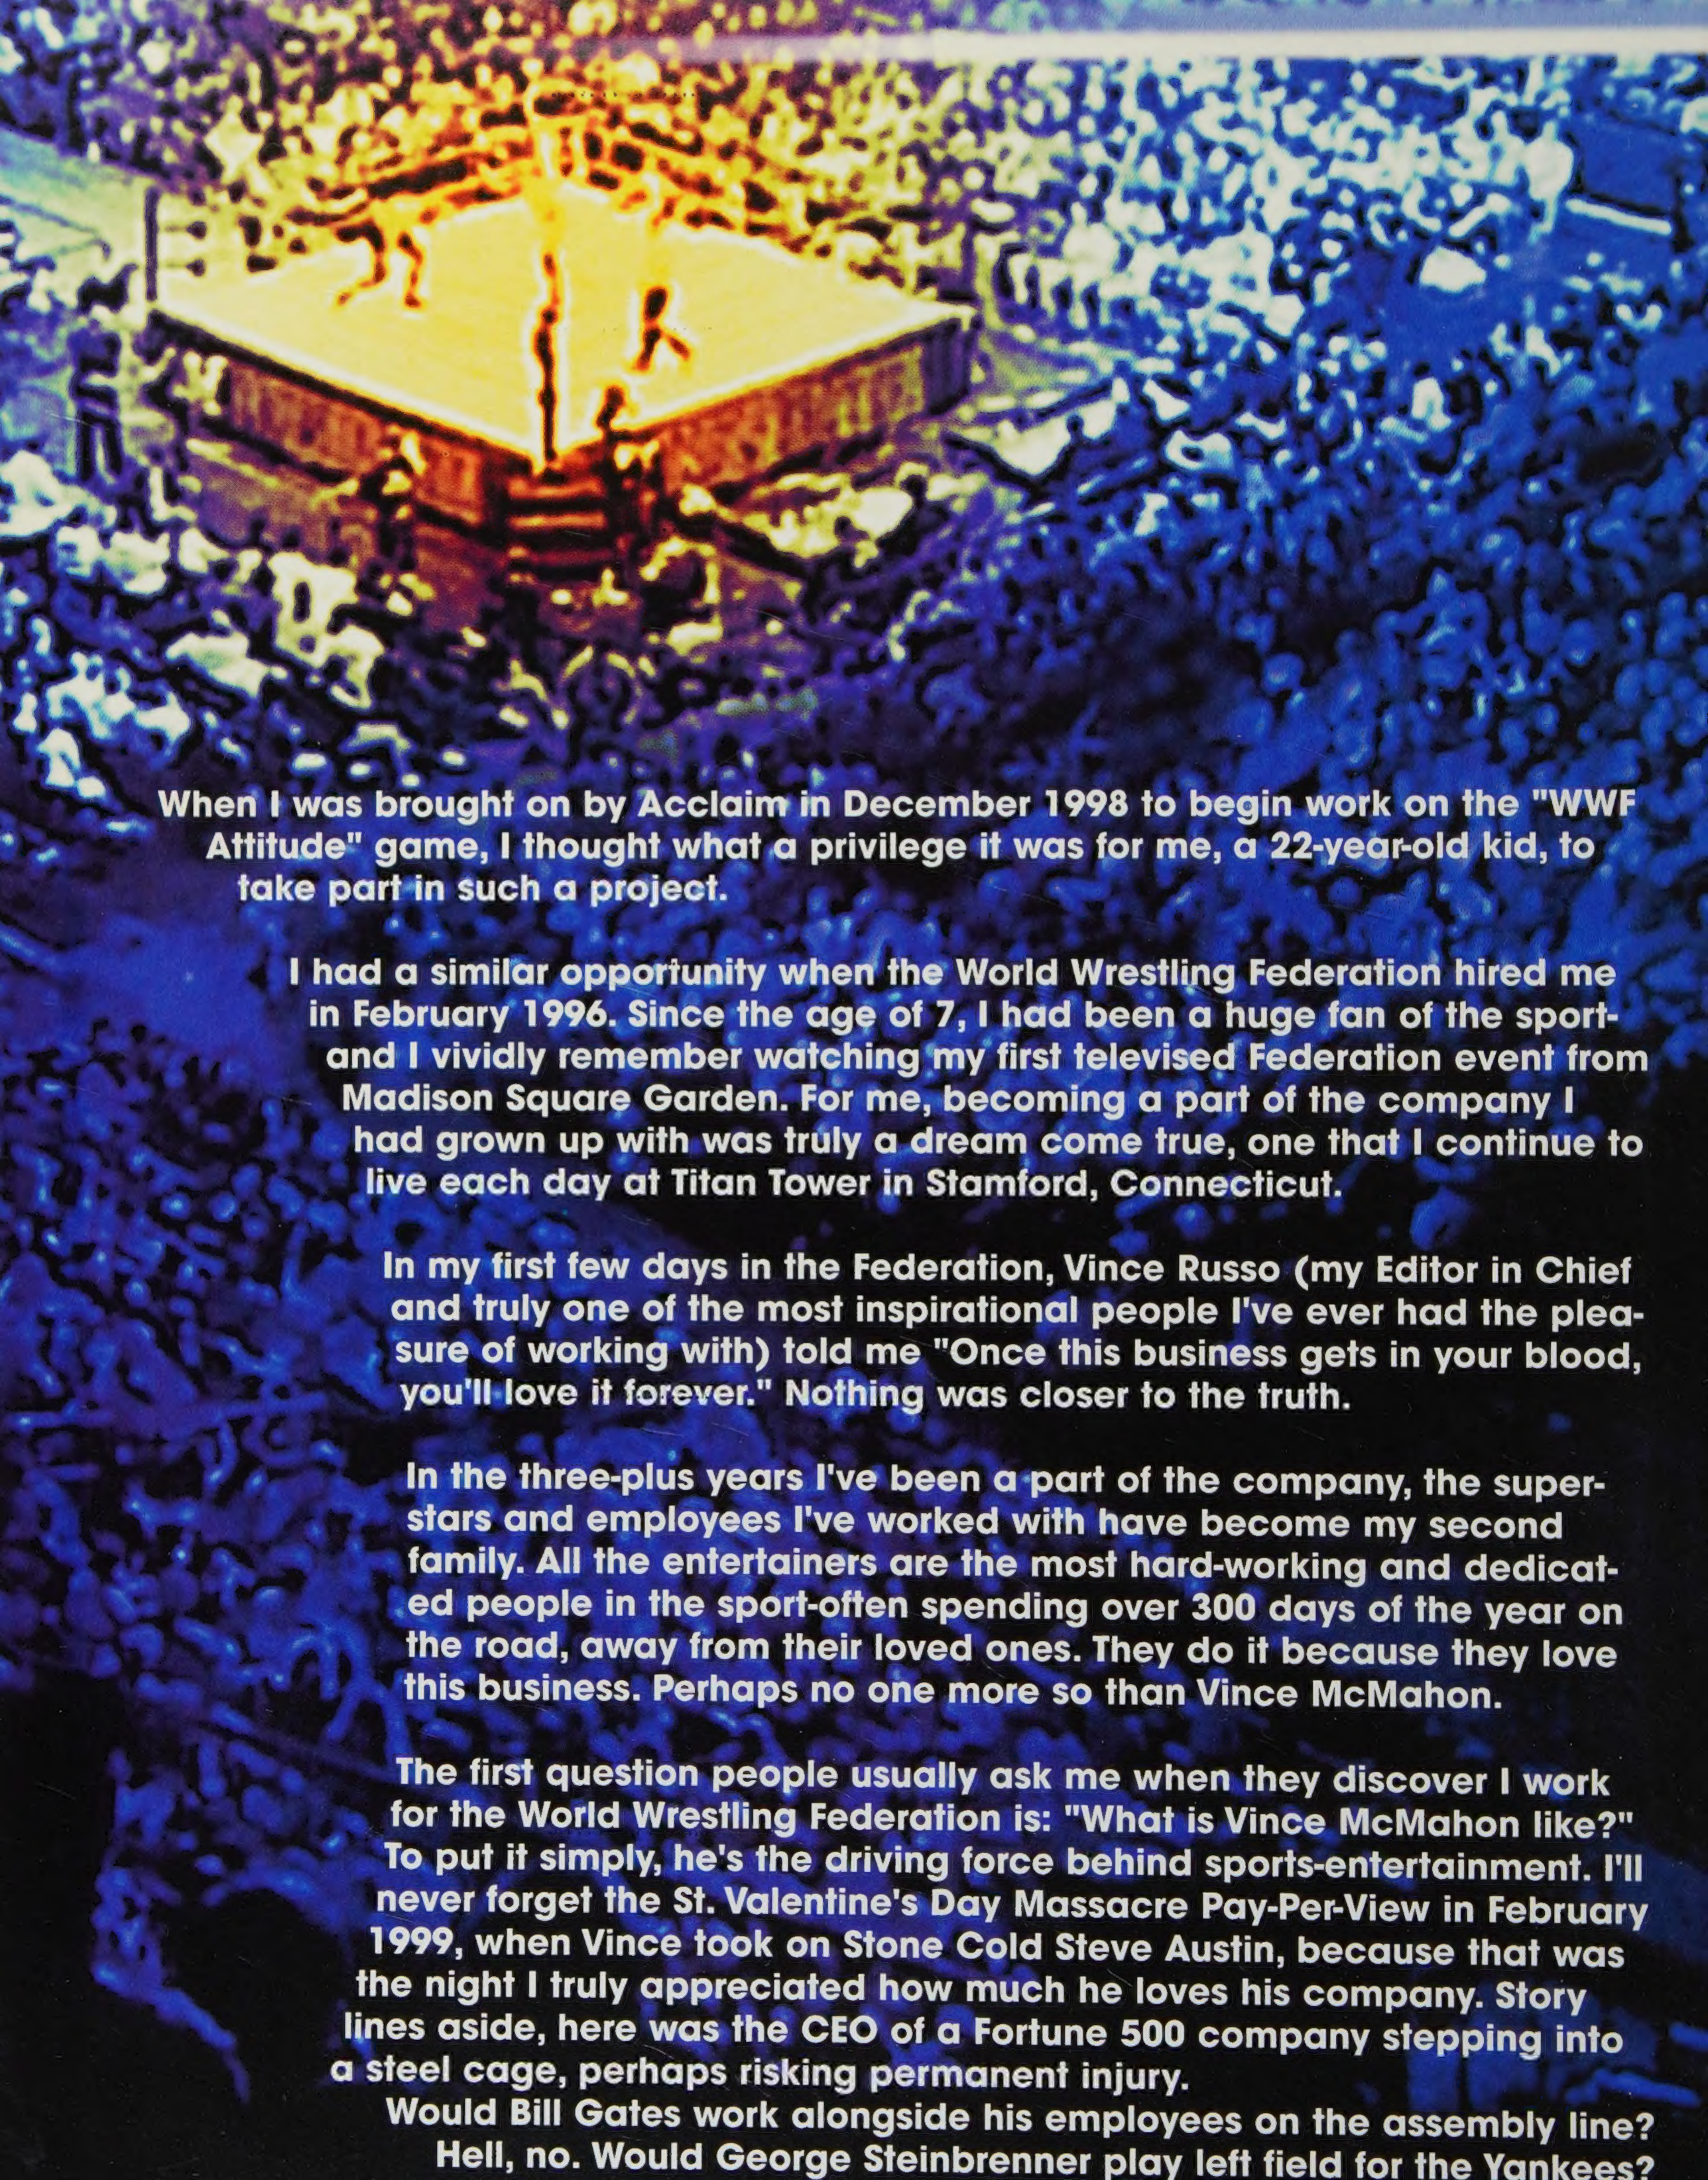
PAGE-142



When I was brought on by Acclaim in December 1998 to begin work on the "WWF Attitude" game, I thought what a privilege it was for me, a 22-year-old kid, to take part in such a project.

I had a similar opportunity when the World Wrestling Federation hired me in February 1996. Since the age of 7, I had been a huge fan of the sport- and I vividly remember watching my first televised Federation event from Madison Square Garden. For me, becoming a part of the company I had grown up with was truly a dream come true, one that I continue to live each day at Titan Tower in Stamford, Connecticut.

In my first few days in the Federation, Vince Russo (my Editor in Chief and truly one of the most inspirational people I've ever had the pleasure of working with) told me "Once this business gets in your blood, you'll love it forever." Nothing was closer to the truth.

In the three-plus years I've been a part of the company, the superstars and employees I've worked with have become my second family. All the entertainers are the most hard-working and dedicated people in the sport-often spending over 300 days of the year on the road, away from their loved ones. They do it because they love this business. Perhaps no one more so than Vince McMahon.

The first question people usually ask me when they discover I work for the World Wrestling Federation is: "What is Vince McMahon like?" To put it simply, he's the driving force behind sports-entertainment. I'll never forget the St. Valentine's Day Massacre Pay-Per-View in February 1999, when Vince took on Stone Cold Steve Austin, because that was the night I truly appreciated how much he loves his company. Story lines aside, here was the CEO of a Fortune 500 company stepping into a steel cage, perhaps risking permanent injury.

Would Bill Gates work alongside his employees on the assembly line? Hell, no. Would George Steinbrenner play left field for the Yankees?

INTRODUCTION

Of course not. That's what distinguishes Vince from everyone else-he's not above going out there and showing everyone how it's done. In the last year I've had the opportunity to work under Vince's son, Shane, as a member of the Federation's New Media department, which in my opinion is the future of sports-entertainment. Nothing means more to me than having fans express how much they enjoyed reading one of my articles on our Internet site (wwf.com) or in the WWF and RAW Magazines. All the hard work and dedication is immediately paid for in full when I learn I made others happy through my writing.

Thanks to everyone at Acclaim I was able to do the same with the "WWF Attitude" game, which really was a labor of love. As a lifelong video game junkie, it's amazing to me that millions of fans will be playing something I helped create. This is the closest thing by far to actually stepping in the ring and competing with the superstars. Where else can you become The Rock and "lay the smack down" on some "roody-poo jabroni" or "open a can of whoop-ass" with Stone Cold Steve Austin? The detail in this game is remarkable. I'd like to personally thank Acclaim's Dan Garcia, Mike Archer and Omar Banmally for allowing me to be a part of this venture.

Is "WWF Attitude" the greatest wrestling game ever created?

Oh, Hell Yeah!

CHAPTER 01

SUPERSTAR BIO"S

You want the real deal on WWF Attitude? Before you can stomp a mud-hole in some poor jabroni and walk it dry, you've got to learn a little something about the 40-plus superstars that are in the game! Don't sweat it if you've been livin' in a cave for the last five years! We've included complete bios of every superstar, as well as how to access the ten hidden characters.

Each biography not only includes past accomplishments, but many of the possible moves each athlete can unleash in the game. And, depending on which game system you've got your sweaty little digits on, there's easy-to-read button combo displays for both PlayStation and N64.

Keep this chapter open as you begin the long haul up the ladder. You might fall, but at least you won't get knocked on your @#$ as hard as you would have if you didn't invest some greenbacks in this strategy guide!

Finishing Move: Stone Cold Stunner

When the era of Austin 3:16 came to pass at WrestleMania XIV, it was the culmination of "8 Long F'in' Years" it took Stone Cold Steve Austin to become the top superstar in sports-entertainment. By downing Shawn Michaels for the gold, the Texas Rattlesnake became an instant phenomenon—ushering in a new brand of "Attitude" in the World Wrestling Federation. Thanks to Mr. McMahon, Austin's reign as champion was a constant hell. After ultimately losing the gold in late 1998, Stone Cold was forced to go through several unenviable Team Corporate obstacles in order to reclaim the title—leading to a "ragin' climax" between Austin and The Rock at WrestleMania XV! With the Texan set to lead the Federation into the next millennium, the book of Austin 3:16 still has several more chapters of ass-whooping left to be told!

GAME TIPS

The Rattlesnake is at his most dangerous when he's hurt or backed into a corner—so don't ever give in to an opponent! Stone Cold has great striking ability coupled with a tremendous methodical attack. He especially enjoys taking the battle to the outside of the ring where he can inflict a great deal of damage on his foes. Austin's greatest strength is that he can hit his enemy at any moment with the Stone Cold Stunner. Once an opponent is dazed, unleash his finisher and quickly cover them for the pin!

Finishing Move: The Rock Bottom

As the crown jewel of Mr. McMahon's Team Corporate, The Rock is one of the most electrifying superstars ever to compete in the World Wrestling Federation. Not only is this third-generation athlete brash and cocky, but he backs up his mouth with tremendous ability. After debuting in the Federation in 1996, the youngster came under the spite of fan for attaining "too much, too soon." Still, he persevered and claimed two Intercontinental Title reigns. Just when it seemed the masses had finally accepted The Rock, he showed his true intentions by aligning himself with Mr. McMahon's Team Corporate. With The Rock's potential and Vince's vision, the superstar became the Federation Corporate Champion! Now, those who oppose The Rock risk getting checked into the Smack Down Hotel on the corner of Know Your Role Boulevard and Jabronie Drive!

GAME TIPS

Only in his mid-twenties, The Rock possesses all the tools of a consummate superstar. With his youth, size and strength, the "Great One" will no doubt be a cornerstone of the Federation for many years to come. What makes The Rock so successful is his ability to adapt to any fighting style—be it in brawling, hardcore or technical battles. The key to helping The Rock dismantle his foes is by properly setting them up for their downfall. The DDT, Corporate Elbow and Rock Bottom are important parts of his winning equation. Once a foe has been properly damaged, use these moves in succession to guarantee a win!

As the leader of the Ministry of Darkness, the Undertaker is more macabre than ever! Some say we have yet to see the true evil that lurks within the black heart of this superstar. Over the course of his eight-plus- year career in the World Wrestling Federation, the Phenom has become one of the most feared competitors in the ranks. With two Federation Championship reigns already to his credit, the formation of the Ministry signals that the Undertaker is poised to take the world of sports-entertainment into his demonic possession! With the Acolytes, the Brood, Midian and Viscera doing his dark bidding, an apocalyptic battle between the forces of good and evil could be set into motion by the Undertaker.

GAME TIPS

The Undertaker's offense is most effective when he's on his feet. Combining a mix of speed, strength and surprising high-flying ability, the Man from the Dark Side is tough to put down for the count. He has explosive short-range skills and can recover from strikes faster than most opponents! To ensure success, wear down your enemy and then finish him off with the combination of a chokeslam followed by the Tombstone Piledriver!

Mick Foley, the alter ego of Mankind, is fast becoming a legend in sports-entertainment. Known as the "King of Hardcore," this superstar constantly puts his career—and his body—on the line to accomplish his goals! Since his debut in the World Wrestling Federation in 1996, Mankind has engaged in aggressive and bloody feuds with the Undertaker, Kane and The Rock. One of his greatest performances came at the 1998 King of the Ring, where he was thrown over the top and through the Hell in a Cell in his war with the Phenom! Later that year, Foley realized his childhood dream of becoming the Federation Champion by upending The Rock on two occasions—once on RAW and later in an empty arena bout during half-time of the 1999 Super Bowl. With two championship reigns to his credit, Mick Foley has finally reached the top of sports-entertainment mountain—and there's no telling just how far he will push himself from there!

GAME TIPS

Don't be afraid to put Mankind's well being on the line to take out an opponent! He can survive any kind of punishment, and give it back to his opponents tenfold. Weapons are Mankind's favorite forte, so use them whenever you have the chance! When using the Boiler Room Dweller, players should concentrate on what he does best—dishing it out hardcore style. If Mankind does have a weakness, it's that he perhaps pushes himself too far to gain the victory. Taking risks early in the bout is

As the leader of the most controversial group in sports-entertainment—D-Generation X—Triple H has elevated his career to new heights in the World Wrestling Federation. A former King of the Ring and Intercontinental Champion, this superstar is one of the most talented athletes to ever compete in the sport! As a founding member of DX, Hunter was responsible for the genesis of the group following WrestleMania XIV—ushering in a new era with X-Pac and the New Age Outlaws. In recent months, Hunter and his troops have engaged in a series of brutal matches with Mr. McMahon's Team Corporate—and The Rock in particular. Poised to attain the next–and greatest–plateau of his career, Triple H has made it abundantly clear that his destiny lies in claiming the Federation Championship!

GAME TIPS

Triple H is one of the most well rounded superstars in the ranks, possessing all the necessary tools necessary to make it to the top. Hunter likes to use a ground-based attack to wear down his foes, and then finishes them off with the Pedigree—considered one of the most punishing maneuvers in the game. Finishing Move: The Ankle-Lock Submission
Championships Held: Intercontinental Title, Tag Team Title

As a former champion in the Ultimate Fighting realm, Ken Shamrock is a master of submission holds. Dubbed the "World's Most Dangerous Man" by ABC television, this superstar can punish opponents in a variety of ways. After attaining the top spot in the UFC, Shamrock introduced his dominating skills to the World Wrestling Federation in 1997, and has risen up through the ranks to become a top contender for the Federation Championship. He solidified his amazing transition to the squared circle in June of 1998, when he became the King of the Ring—and has since claimed the Intercontinental and Tag Team gold as a member of Mr. McMahon's Team Corporate. Thanks to the owner, Shamrock's destructive temper has only gotten more out of control!

GAME TIPS

Once Shamrock gets in his Zone, there is no stopping him! His greatest strength is his intensity, which he uses to buzz saw through opponents like a wolverine. His only weakness is his uncontrollable temper, which has earned him his share of disqualifications in his career. Your best bet when using Shamrock is to go straight after the opponent with a variety of offensive strikes. Use the No Holds Barred fighter to concentrate on the legs of your foe, then lock them down with the Ankle-Lock Submission. Even if the enemy manages to escape the hold, the damage it inflicts will slow them down incredibly!

Kane, the younger brother of the Undertaker, is a frightening superstar who at times is an uncontrollable weapon of destruction. Unveiled by Paul Bearer in October 1997 following 20-plus years of seclusion, the Big Red Machine and the Undertaker nearly annihilated each other in their hellish wars. After months of brutal aggression between the brothers, the Phenom finally revealed that he was the one responsible for disfiguring his sibling in a raging inferno! The highlight of Kane's career came at the 1998 King of the Ring when he defeated Stone Cold Steve Austin for the World Wrestling Federation Championship. Several months later, the monster came under the corporate control of Mr. McMahon, who only succeeded in making the superstar more dangerous!

GAME TIPS

Like his brother, the Undertaker, Kane can recover quickly from the offensive strikes of his foes. He rarely takes to the air—preferring to dismantle opponents on the mat. His strength is his greatest asset, as he is perhaps the most powerful superstar ever to compete in the World Wrestling Federation. Big, strong and powerful, Kane is like a tank with no regard for the well being of his foes. However, without guidance this monster is his own worst enemy. For best success, use the Big Red Machine to demolish foes with a ground-based attack, and then finish them off with a chokeslam or the

Finishing Move: The Sharpshooter

One of the most celebrated combatants in World Wrestling Federation history, Owen Hart is perhaps the most technically skilled superstars in the sport. As the youngest of the Hart family clan, Owen learned his mat mechanics from father Stu in the infamous Hart Family Dungeon in Calgary. After debuting in the Federation in the late 80s under the guise of the Blue Blazer, Owen cast aside the mask and found his place in the spotlight. Since then, Owen has held his own in claiming several championship reigns—most recently teaming with Jeff Jarrett to claim the Tag Team gold. Despite all his success, the high-flyer still relies on the services of his mysterious alter ego, the Blue Blazer, to give him an added threat in his mat wars!

GAME TIPS

Despite his lack of size, Owen is one of the most gifted superstars in the ranks. He is surprisingly tough and overcomes his larger foes with a mix of stamina and speed. Owen's greatest strength is his high-flying ability, a quality he has honed to perfection in his career. After wearing down the enemy, players would be wise to take to the air as much as possible. However, if a ground-based attack is more your style, Hart can be just

Finishing Move: The Money Shot
Career Highlights: Intercontinental Championship

The adult film star Val Venis is one of the most talked about World Wrestling Federation Superstars today! Virtually ignored in all the talk about his controversial persona is the fact that after all the boasting and gyrating, he is a gifted athlete. Venis certainly works hard to please the ladies, as apparent by his exploits with Terri Runnels and Ryan Shamrock—the sister of Ken Shamrock! In the latter conquest, the superstar enraged the World's Most Dangerous Man, leading to an all-out war between the two in which Val captured the Intercontinental Championship from his foe. When he's not competing in the squared circle, Val enjoys adding to his collection of adult films, which sometimes feature the wives or girlfriends of his foes! Using the same virility in the ring, there's no telling how far Venis can go.

GAME TIPS

Despite his size, Val is a talented high-flyer. His top-rope splash—dubbed the "Money Shot"—can take out any foe! His stamina is also one of his greatest assets, as just when it appears he is wearing down a surge of energy brings him back to full strength. Despite his tactics and innuendo, Venis is a skilled tactical fighter. He wisely works on the back of an opponent prior to the Money Shot...a strategy

X-Pac is loud, obnoxious and not afraid to rip into someone at a moment's notice. To back up his brashness, he is also one of the top aerial athletes in sports-entertainment. Together with the rest of DX, the superstar has revolutionized the World Wrestling Federation, becoming one of its most popular stars in the process. During his first run in the Federation in the early '90s, Pac—then known as the 1-2-3 Kid—disregarded his own well-being in his aerial attack, upsetting dozens of superstars in the process. However, this reckless abandon caught up with the youngster...nearly costing him his career in the process. After a brief period out of the Federation spotlight, 'Pac returned louder than ever the night after WrestleMania XIV—becoming a cornerstone of DX along with Triple H and the New Age Outlaws. With two European Championship reigns topping his list of accomplishments, there's no limit to how far X-Pac can push it!

GAME TIPS

Although X-Pac is a tremendously skilled high-flyer, he prefers to stick to a ground-based attack. Use his aerial attacks sparingly! Despite his lack of size, the superstar can absorb tremendous amounts of punishment. However, this is not to say players should compete recklessly with X-Pac, as even he will eventually wear down under a steady deluge of punishment. The DX member's greatest strength is his martial arts skills—as several well-placed kicks by the superstar can severely

Claiming "they" speak to him through Head (his mannequin sidekick), Al Snow is one of the most disturbed superstars in the World Wrestling Federation ranks. After several missed opportunities drove Snow over the edge of lunacy and out of the Federation spotlight in 1997, the Ohio native emerged over a year later to fight the forces of P.U.S.H. with his band of outcasts known as the J.O.B. Squad! Since that time, Snow has focused his efforts on developing a hardcore style, becoming one of the top combatants in the aggressive division. As the self-proclaimed "Crowned Prince of Hardcore" Snow goes to great lengths to unleash a deluge of punishment against opponents—or if one isn't available, even himself for the hell of it!

GAME TIPS

Not only is Al Snow an exceptional technical superstar, but he is also a master of hardcore and martial arts styles. Despite his psychological problems, the Ohio native is a crafty ring veteran and his ability should never be underestimated. Snow can recover from attacks exceptionally fast, so don't be afraid to put his body on the line to attempt a high-risk top rope assault. Billy Gunn, perhaps the best all-around athlete in the World Wrestling Federation, ranks as the only superstar to hold the Tag Team Championship on six different occasions. Debuting in 1994 alongside brother Bart as the Smoking Gunns, the tandem captured the gold three times before splitting in 1996. From there "Badd Ass" found an unlikely partner in "Road Dogg" Jesse James, forming the team that would revolutionize the Federation tag team ranks—the New Age Outlaws! One night after WrestleMania XIV, the Outlaws found a home in the genesis of Triple H's D-Generation X, solidifying their stance as the top team in the sport. Since that time, "Mr. Ass" has come into his own as a singles threat, rising up to top contender status for the Intercontinental Championship as a member of the most controversial group in sports-entertainment!

As the head of security for Mr. McMahon's Team Corporate, the Big Boss Man is hell-bent on serving hard time to his enemies. The former Cobb County corrections officer is a brutal combatant, and enjoys beating foes into submission with his brand marshall law. During the late 1980s, the Boss Man nearly claimed the World Wrestling Federation Championship on several occasions before stepping away from the spotlight to pursue other interests. Upon his return this past year, he emerged as a leaner, meaner strongarm for the owner. This brand of brutality has earned the Boss Man the Hardcore Championship and a Tag Team Title reign with fellow Corporate member Ken Shamrock.

GAME TIPS

The Big Boss Man is at his best in a brawling situation, and can damage opponents quickly by smothering them with his brutality. The superstar also excels in weapons matches, as his hardcore status qualifies him to wield any type of arms! As a member of the Undertaker's Ministry of Darkness, Bradshaw has grown more evil under the demonic teachings of the Phenom. Heartless and soul-less—the two best words to describe what Bradshaw has become. Casting aside his Texan heritage for the power of the Dark Side, Bradshaw and partner Faarooq form one of the most destructive tag teams in World Wrestling Federation history—the Acolytes! The term "acolyte" is defined as an "officer in the church, or follower" whose duty is to assist and attend the priest...in this case the Undertaker! Together, this duo adorns their bodies with symbols from the Necromicon, or the Book of the Dead. With his cold, black eyes and new-found aggression, Bradshaw has been a force unleashed without regard for the well being of his opponents.

As with the rest of the Brood members, Christian's past is a mystery. The younger brother of Edge is a former World Wrestling Federation Light Heavyweight Champion, and his potential is immeasurable. A talented high-flyer, Christian continues to amaze his peers with his top rope skills. Silent and extremely gifted, the superstar is surprisingly lethal in his attack. Driven by an unholy anger fueled by the Ministry of Darkness, Christian and his kindred spirits have vowed a total blood bath for any superstars who dare to stand in the way of their gothic mission!

GAME TIPS

Although Christian is at a size and strength disadvantage against many of his opponents, his aerial attack can quickly damage the biggest of superstars. To harness his athletic gifts, it's best to use him in tag team situations with his fellow Brood members! Christian is a perfect combatant for beginning players wishing to master a high-flying strategy or the art of avoiding a foe's attack.

Career Highlights: European Champion (2)

You'd better recognize the talents of D'Lo Brown, as this high-flyer is part of the foundation of the future of the World Wrestling Federation! Beginning his career in sports-entertainment in 1996 as a member of the Nation of Domination, this superstar came into his own after the faction went their separate ways. With two European Championship reigns topping his resume, the superstar claims he became the love of Europe, and was even partly responsible for their economic resurgence! D'Lo is also one of the most skilled high-flyers in the sport. His "Sky High" powerbomb followed by the Lo-Down frog splash from the top rope is a combination no superstar has been able to survive yet. Along with "Sexual Chocolate" Mark Henry, the power and high-flying tandem is a threat to the Tag Team gold!

GAME TIPS

D'Lo is incredibly versatile in the ring, and can recover from most attacks within minutes. Along with his Lo-Down finisher, the superstar's running powerbomb is another of his most potent offensive strikes! Despite his cockiness, he is a technical strategist and can master almost any move during the course of a bout. In tag team action, the tandem of D'Lo and Mark Henry are an imposing force—one that can easily

Widely regarded as one of the toughest superstars in the sport, "Dr. Death" Steve Williams' fighting reputation precedes him wherever he goes! He was a two-sport standout with the Oklahoma Sooners, capturing dozens of collegiate amateur wrestling titles as well as becoming a stand-out on the gridiron under former Dallas Cowboys coach Barry Switzer. After a successful career conquering various wrestling promotions in Japan, "Dr. Death" debuted in the World Wrestling Federation in 1998-and quickly became the favorite to win the "Brawl For All" tournament. However, an injury and loss to Bart Gunn cost him a chance at the championship, putting Williams on the sidelines for the remainder of the year. When the superstar made his return to the ring in early 1999, friend and fellow Oklahoma native Jim Ross stood by his side. Since that time they have unleashed a wave of destruction that will only cease when they get what they want? RESPECT !

GAME TIPS

From the opening bell, take the fight straight to your opponent! Williams'rush of brutality is usually too much for a foe to take. Clubbing fists,kicks, clotheslines and tackles are among his forte, so use them in mass quantity! Thanks to his experience in the squared circle as well as on the football field, the superstar can absorb tremendous amounts of punishment. When the time is right, "Dr. Death's" running slam

With his tattoos, piercings and outlandish haircuts, no other superstar in the ranks of the World Wrestling Federation exemplifies freedom of expression like Droz. A former college football standout at the University of Maryland, this New Jersey native went on to play professional gridiron with the Denver Broncos where he gained notoriety for vomiting on the field—and opposing players! After finding a home in the Federation, Droz not only befriended the Legion of Doom, but eventually became the key to their downfall. Now as nasty as he wants to be, this superstar not only questions authority...but ignores it. In his spare time, Droz enjoys hunting and fishing—when he often likes to eat raw deer hearts and swallow minnows!

GAME TIPS

Although he lacks the size of fellow brawlers, Droz is one of the toughest combatants in the Federation. His experience on the gridiron allows him to attack in short, powerful bursts—and he isn't afraid to take to the air if necessary! Not only does Droz utilize his freedom of expression, but a wide variety of weapons as well. Whether it be a steel chair, bat or table, the former Bronco can inflict massive amounts of damage

When Edge aligned himself with Gangrel* and younger brother Christian he set in motion an unholy alliance, which would come to be known as the Brood. With his past still a question, many wonder why this superstar would choose to follow Gangrel, the superstar who once tried to end his career! Seemingly tormented by some kind of inner madness, Edge chooses to exist within the dark underworld of the goth lifestyle. Couple this with his devotion to the Undertaker's Ministry of Darkness, and Edge's downward spiral into a hellish fate grows deeper! With the Brood threatening to envelop the Federation in an all-out blood bath, can anyone stop these demonic menaces?

GAME TIPS

Edge mirrors his fellow Brood members in that his cat-like senses make him a dangerous threat for any opponent. The superstar is exceptionally skilled at countering the holds of his foes, and can escape from most submission maneuvers! Thanks to his impressive physical build, Edge's endurance allows him to stay fresh during the course of lengthy bouts. Coupling him with either Gangrel or Christian

As a follower in the Undertaker's Ministry of Darkness, Faarooq has grown stronger thanks to the demonic doctrines of the Phenom. Alongside his Acolyte partner Bradshaw, these two superstars are pure destruction in the squared circle. A former gridiron legend at Florida State University, Faarooq is one of two players—Deion Sanders being the other—to have their jerseys retired at the school. After attaining status as the first Black Heavyweight Champion in the sport, Faarooq set his goals on conquering the World Wrestling Federation in 1996. As the founder of the Nation of Domination, he molded the group into one of the most powerful factions in Federation history before joining forces with Bradshaw. Under the Undertaker, this superb athlete has re-invented his career and is now more dangerous than ever!

GAME TIPS

Alongside Bradshaw, the Acolytes are perhaps the most dominating tag team in the Federation. In singles competition, Faarooq is a master at dismantling opponents. He takes the fight straight to them from the opening bell, and doesn't let up until they are prone on the mat. Players should incorporate this same strategy when using Faarooq in battle. Stay on the enemy until they are weak enough to barely defend themselves,

As the apparent leader of the Brood, Gangrel is one of the most macabre superstars in World Wrestling Federation history. Emerging from a ring of fire prior to each bout, his bizarre entrance culminates in a bizarre ceremony in which the superstar spits a red, viscous liquid into the air! His quest is driven by a force few can understand–a power that recently unleashed a blood bath in the ranks. Along with Edge and Christian, the trio's past is a mystery that has yet to unfold. As a follower in the Undertaker's Ministry of Darkness, Gangrel and his comrades are bent on shrouding the Federation in the eternal darkness of their gothic lifestyle!

GAME TIPS

Gangrel's cat-like speed allows him the skill of a high-flyer while at the same time matching his opponents with size and strength. His ability to recover from assaults is tremendous, so don't be afraid to try a high-risk strategy with the Ministry follower. Gangrel is also an accomplished brawler and a master of whatever weapons might be at his disposal. Like his fellow Brood members, Gangrel is well-suited to team with Edge and Christian to attack the tag team ranks!

Pimpin' ain't easy, and neither is the Godfather! Since returning to his roots as a "player," New York City's own has become one of the most popular superstars in the World Wrestling Federation. On any given night, opponents may find themselves on the receiving end of a very generous offer–battle the Godfather or take home three of his finest ladies! The smart ones choose the latter, while an unfortunate few opt to take a beating from the superstar. In addition to his love of women, the Godfather is also a talented ring technician who is trained in the art of no-holds-barred fighting. With his size and strength, many sports-entertainment aficionados claim it is only a matter of time before he captures Federation gold! In the meantime, the Godfather is more than happy to remain the conductor of the world's biggest "ho" train!

GAME TIPS

Despite his controversial persona, the Godfather is one of the toughest superstars in the Federation who can absorb tremendous amounts of punishment. His knowledge of the streets provides exceptional brawling skill–a prowes splayers should take advantage of! One of the Godfather's biggest strengths is his size, with few opponents measuring up to the New York City native. For an interesting tag team combination, pairing the Godfather with Val Venis would result in a blend of "supply and demand."

What twists and turns will the action/adventure epic known as "The Goldust Show" take next? Only Goldust knows for sure, as he is the one writing the script! His blockbuster career began in the World Wrestling Federation in 1995, where he portrayed the classic Hollywood villain. Since that time, he has shocked and amazed us...making us cry one minute and laugh the next. Simply put, the fans are his unwitting viewing audience, and he relishes in knowing he can pull their strings! A long list of co-stars have also made cameos in his longstanding trilogy—from Razor Ramon—from whom he claimed the Intercontinental Title at the 1996 Royal Rumble; to his estranged wife Terri Runnels; as well as Al Snow and the Blue Meanie. However, he claims his greatest performance has yet to be revealed, and many are left wondering how this bizarre saga will unfold!

GAME TIPS

The Golden One is a master of the mind games so you would be wise to psyche out his foes during the course of the bout. One of his greatest strengths is his ability as a wrestling chameleon, as Goldust is able to absorb the offensive strikes of his enemies and turn it against them. His greatest weakness is his high-flying ability, as Goldust

Casting aside his neon cowboy hat and country-western persona, Jeff Jarrett realized what kind of "Attitude" it took to succeed in the World Wrestling Federation. Following his return to the Federation in 1997 this former Intercontinental Champion reunited with longtime associate Debra, adding yet another weapon to his in-ring arsenal. Thanks to Debra, no opponent can keep his eyes off the blonde beauty! In 1998, Jarrett found a tag team partner in Owen Hart after the two were revealed to be under the guise of the Blue Blazer—and quickly rose up the tag team ranks to defeat the Big Boss Man and Ken Shamrock for the Tag Team Championship! Opponents who make the mistake of pissing off the Nashville native could face vengeance in the form of his guitar, which Jeff often smashes over his foe's head!

GAME TIPS

Jarrett is exceptionally quick on the canvas, and can outmaneuver any attack an enemy might throw at him. The Nashville native's speed will allow you to block or duck any strike—but practice makes perfect! Mark Henry's a lover, not a fighter. He's "Sexual Chocolate" and proud of it! Since discovering his newfound charisma, Henry has become every woman's fantasy and every man's jealousy. Time and time again, he's proven "Sexual Chocolate" melts in your mouth... not in your hands. This former Olympian made his World Wrestling Federation debut in 1996, and soon found a comfortable home in the Nation. When the faction finally split, Henry and close friend D'Lo Brown pooled their talents, becoming one of the top tandems in the Federation! However, it was Henry's sexual exploits that garnered him a share of the spotlight when he thought he had won over the heart of Chyna. Unfortunately, it was all a trick by the Ninth Wonder of the World—but Henry quickly rebounded with a new interest in Ivory. Since then the superstar has become the perfect lover—proving he's just like milk...he does all the ladies' bodies good!

GAME TIPS

Few superstars in the Federation can equal the strength of "Sexual Chocolate." Bear hugs, powerful clotheslines and big splashes will take the gas out of almost any foe! Henry is a lover at heart, but once the big man gets angry his path of destruction is unstoppable. Players should avoid sending Henry to the top rope, as his lack of speed may cost them the victory. Simply concentrate on wearing down the enemy with a Tougher than leather and harder than nails, Road Dogg Jesse James can take any punishment and give it back tenfold! A United States Marine Corps standout who served on the front lines of the Gulf War, the superstar knows what survival is all about! As a member of the most controversial group in World Wrestling Federation history, D-Generation X, the D-O-Double G and partner "Badd Ass" Billy Gunn combine to form three-time tag team champions the New Age Outlaws. In the singles ranks Road Dogg is one of the top hardcore athletes in the sport, a reputation that helped earn him the Hardcore Championship from the Big Boss Man in 1998. During his reign, Jesse competed against the likes of Mankind and Al Snow—contests that James helped establish as hardcore classics!

GAME TIPS

Road Dogg loves to use weapons—and lots of 'em! Chairs, tables, garbage cans, even the kitchen sink—any one of them is a valuable tool for the superstar to use. If you want to go hardcore on an opponent, Jesse is the man for the job. Don't be afraid to take Road Dogg out of the ring for an assault, as the ringside area is where he can inflict the most damage. If you're looking for some aggressive fun in a specialty match, Road Dogg is your best bet! O, for a run at the Tag Team gold, form the New Age Outlaws with Billy Gunn

As one-half of the most rebellious tandem in the sport, many World Wrestling Federation fans are shocked to learn that Mosh is a college graduate with a teaching degree. Thanks to hours of punishment in the pits of various heavy-metal concerts, the once normal Mosh was transformed into a living, breathing example of youth gone astray in America! The duo entered the Federation in 1997 and has steadily climbed their way up through the ranks to become of the top tandems in the sport. Currently, they hold the distinction of being the only duo in the history of sports-entertainment to hold three different tag team titles—the Federation, the NWA and the "Tag Team Championship of the Universe."

GAME TIPS

Much like his tag team partner, Mosh enjoys a good brawl. He is especially skilled at throwing forearms or boots to an opponent—a skill he learned in the pits of Pantera and Marilyn Manson! Once again, players should master his "Stage Dive" finisher, as it will be an effective tool in finishing off opponents. Another effective weapon Mosh

As one-half of the Headbangers, Thrasher is the high-flyer of the heavy-metal tandem. Following the start of a singles career in the early 90s, the superstar helped train his tag team partner Mosh! Realizing they clicked on all cylinders as a duo, the Headbangers eventually broke into the World Wrestling Federation in 1997, and pulled off a major victory at WrestleMania 13 by winning a four-team elimination bout. Later that year, Mosh and Thrasher would realize their dream of claiming the Federation Tag Team Championship! In the months that followed, Thrasher joined his partner in capturing the NWA Tag Team gold as well as becoming the self-proclaimed "Tag Team Champions of the Universe."

GAME TIPS

Despite his outlandish appearance, Thrasher is a sound technical competitor who can compete in a variety of styles. Like his partner, the superstar excels at brawling—a trait he learned in the mosh pits of heavy-metal melees. If a weapon presents itself for use, a player would be wise to make it part of Thrasher's offensive strike. Above all, learn to master his finisher the "Stage Dive." It's his best

As the alleged son of Jerry Lawler, "Too Sexy" Brian Christopher is one of the most gifted—and annoying—superstars in the World Wrestling Federation! After making his debut in 1997, the Memphis native became a top contender for the Light Heavyweight Title before turning his attention to the tag team ranks. Alongside "Too Much" partner "Too Hot" Scott Taylor, the duo goes to great lengths to nauseate their opponents in the squared circle by constantly expressing their platonic love for each other. Often at a size disadvantage against their enemies, "Too Much" make up for the difference in their speed and teamwork.

GAME TIPS

Take to the air often with "Too Sexy," as his best offense is a sound aerial attack. Don't make the mistake of thinking Christopher can match power moves with bigger foes! Instead, take advantage of weapons if possible to even the score. Christopher is best suited as a tag team specialist, and would make a perfect partner to conquer the doubles ranks.

A former member of DX and the back-up muscle for Team Corporate, Chyna is a female combatant who can match size and strength with many male counterparts in the World Wrestling Federation. A former fitness competitor and fully licensed boxer, the superstar is experienced in several forms of hand-to-hand combat. Entering the Federation in 1997, Chyna was the bodyguard for Triple H—and later became the cohesive force behind D-Generation X. However, her appetite for the spotlight would eventually overshadow her loyalty to the controversial faction. Following a generous offer from Mr. McMahon, the Ninth Wonder of the World turned her back on DX...mowing down Triple H in the process! As a member of Team Corporate, Chyna is hell-bent on not only annihilating anyone who gets in her way, but dismantling the faction she once helped to flourish as well.

GAME TIPS

Chyna is as tough as anyone—male or female! As she has proven, she can hang with any man in the squared circle and teach them all a lesson in aggression as well. One of Chyna's favorite maneuvers is the Hurrcanrana, a punishing strike that can potentially knock a foe unconscious. Thanks to her dedication to the weight room, she is also just as powerful—if not more so—than most superstars!

Finishing Move: Sable Bomb

Titles Held: Federation Women's Championship

Sable, the femme fatale of the World Wrestling Federation, is a beauty who packs both brains and brawn! A former model, her first year in the ranks saw a whirlwind romance with former Intercontinental Champion Marc Mero. However, after their relationship soured, the two went their separate ways—with Sable more than willing to defend herself! In November 1998, the beauty won the Federation Women's Championship from Jacqueline at the Survivor Series and went on to engage in a bitter feud with the maniacal Luna. As one of the hottest commodities in the Federation, Sable has not only attracted the attention of fans, but Playboy magazine as well! To her credit, the vixen recently appeared on the cover of the publication—a testament to her true influence in the world of sports-entertainment.

GAME TIPS

Although Sable isn't as experienced in the mat wars as Luna, Chyna or Jacqueline, her mastery of the martial arts and hand-to-hand combat is her greatest strength. The femme fatale can floor her opponents with a flurry of kicks to the midsection or head, setting up two of her favorite finishing maneuvers—the Sablecanrana or Sable Bomb. In order for the beauty to successfully pull off these high-impact moves, her enemy must be severely damaged.

As a former World Wrestling Federation Women's Champion, Jacqueline is one of the most distinguished female combatants in the sport. In her early days, she made a name for herself in several independent wrestling promotions in Texas—often beating her male counterparts in the process! Years later, after the break-up of Sable and Marc Mero, the "Marvelous One" revealed Jacqueline as his new love interest—and immediately unleashed her in an attempt to humiliate the blonde beauty. In a subsequent bout to determine a new Federation Women's Champion, Jacqueline upended her nemesis for the gold—a victory that drove Sable to dedicate herself to mastering mat warfare. Although Sable would claim the gold at their Survivor Series re-match, Jacqueline would go on to form a bond with Terri Runnels...dubbing themselves P.M.S. Together, these pretty mean sisters have vowed to make every male superstar's life a living hell!

GAME TIPS

Along with Chyna and Luna, Jacqueline is one of the toughest female combatants in the sport. Although she lacks the size of her fellow competitors, she more than makes up for it in her strength and skill. Jacqueline excels in the high-flying category, so don't be afraid to attempt an aerial assault with her if you get the opportunity. Hand-to-hand combat is also one of her fortes...as a hard right from the superstar could knock many of her male counterparts cold!

Weight: 350 pounds
From: The Oddities

Finishing Move: Kurrgan Shuffle

Once a quiet and uncontrollable superstar, the massive Kurrgan has not only found his inner self, but also a home in the fun-loving group known as the Oddities. Weighing in at 350 pounds and measuring seven feet tall, the giant is one of the most imposing athletes in the sport. Along with Golga and the Giant Silva, Kurrgan rounds out one of the most physically destructive threesomes in World Wrestling Federation history. Aside from his in-ring ability, Kurrgan has also shown himself to be quite a singer and a snazzy dresser to boot! In recent months, the superstar has developed under the tutelage of Hall of Famer George "The Animal" Steele who, despite his unpredictable ways, has taken the Oddities under his wing. With the original Federation "freak" paving the way for Kurrgan, few will be able to stop this monster!

GAME TIPS

Opponents will try to take Kurrgan off his feet early, so beat them to the offensive by pummeling them with a series of power maneuvers. Although the superstar may be a dancin' freak, he also possesses one of the most destructive mean streaks in the Federation. Don't be afraid to take advantage of weapons during the bout, as Kurrgan's added size and strength will add to the impact of the blows!

A former World Wrestling Federation Intercontinental Champion, "Marvelous" Marc Mero once called Sable the love of his life—but their relationship would not have a fairy tale ending! The superstar made his debut at WrestleMania XII, saving the blonde beauty from a verbal assault from Triple H. In the months that followed, Mero and Sable were the premier couple in the Federation...until a knee injury sidelined "Marvelous" in 1997. During his recuperation at home, Sable found her own place in the spotlight and attained celebrity status. This angered Mero who, upon his return, made it clear that he was the true star of the team! Sable had enough of his selfish ways, however, and ended her romance with the superstar. In turn, Mero found a new love interest in the form of Jacqueline—which ended in turmoil as well. Refocused and rededicated to the sport, "Marvelous" is now aiming to go straight back to the top!

GAME TIPS

Mero is a superb technical strategist, and can lock down any opponent on the canvas if need be. A former Golden Gloves champion, the superstar also possesses exceptional boxing skills—and can knock a foe cold with his punching power. As an accomplished aerial artist, "Marvelous" continues to amaze spectators with his high-flying maneuvers, which include the "Marvelocity" triple somersault as well as a shooting star press. But make sure your opponent is stunned before attempting them! Missing such a high-risk attack could spell the downfall of Mero.

Finishing Move: The Cobra Clutch
Titles Held: Federation Championship

As a former World Wrestling Federation Champion, Sgt. Slaughter is a brutal competitor who excels at the art of beating his opponents into submission. During his heyday, the former boot camp sadist combated the communist threat in the World Wrestling Federation—becoming one of the most popular superstars in the history of the sport in the process. In addition to his in-ring success, Slaughter also gained fame as a lead character on the hit G.I. Joe series. During his return to the ring in the early '90s, the former marine turned his back on America to support the Iraqi movement—a move which catapulted him to the top of the sport. Years later, he would play an intricate role in the success of Mr. McMahon's Team Corporate...assuming the role of Commissioner before handing the reigns over to Shawn Michaels. Still a skilled combatant, Slaughter enjoys whipping any maggot into shape when duty calls!

GAME TIPS

If an opponent makes the mistake of trading punishment with Slaughter, the fight will surely belong to the former marine! Thanks to his years of in-ring wars, the superstar is tougher than leather and can assault opponents in a variety of ways. One of his favorites is with weapons, be it a chair or whatever else you can get his hands on. An important tip for players is to avoid using Slaughter in aerial attacks. Despite his accomplishments, the sadist never fared well coming off the top!

Finishing Move: The Michinoku Driver
Career Highlight: World Wrestling Federation Light Heavyweight Championship

No other superstar in the Federation has the speed and high-flying ability of Taka Michinoku. Use this asset to your advantage against bigger opponents like the Undertaker or Kane, as the Japanese star can run circles around them. However—if and when they catch Michinoku, it might be another story! Michinoku's greatest weakness is his lack of size and strength, so continue to pour on the aerial punishment. When you have the enemy stunned, Taka's Michinoku Driver finisher can garner the victory.

Reversals!

Are you tired of your opponent damaging you with a very powerful move? If you hit the block button at just the right time, you can prevent your opponent from performing that move with a reversal move of your own! Here are some of the moves that you are able to reverse and the moves that you and your superstar will reverse them with.

ARM DRAG

Delivered to a charging or standing opponent. The superstar performing the move grabs his opponent by his arm, and throws him across his body to the mat.

450 SPLASH

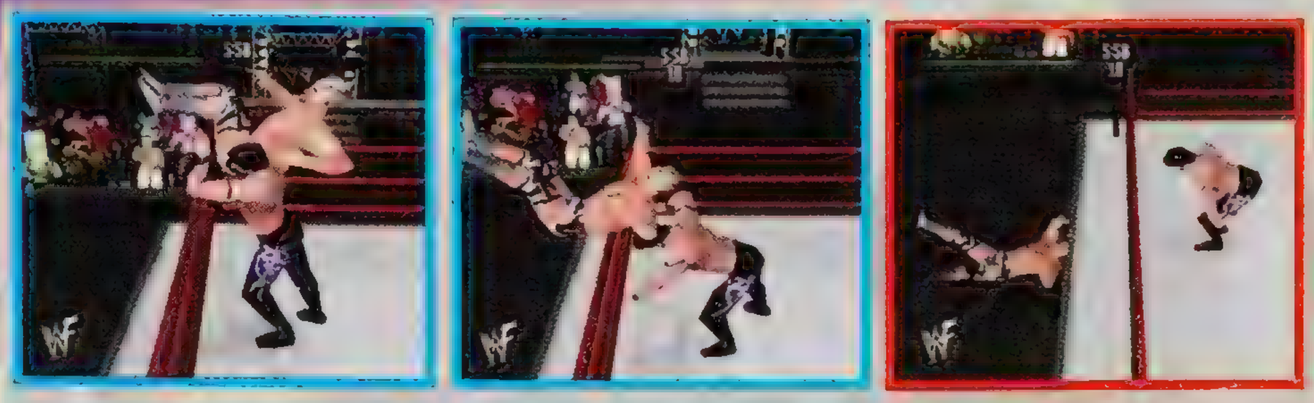
With the opponent dazed on the canvas, the offensive superstar climbs to the second or top rope and leaps as far as he can into the air. Before crashing down on the victim, the superstar flips his body end over end—gaining more momentum for the impact of the splash!

ASS KISSER

This finishing maneuver for Billy Gunn is a high-impact Rocker Dropper from the corner. With his opponent dazed in the ring, Gunn heads to the turnbuckles and launches himself into the air—using the back of his leg to drive the opponent's face into the canvas.

FINISHER

ATOMIC WHIP



Similar to an Atomic Drop, only this time the offensive superstar sends his victim hurling into one of the corner turnbuckles. Sometimes, the force of the impact can daze the opponent for several seconds—allowing a window of opportunity to lay on the punishment!

BACK BREAKER

Lifting an opponent up in a body slam position, the offensive superstar then twists his victim around and releases his grip. The superstar then allows his foe to come crashing down back first on his braced knee!

BEAR HUG

Not a very friendly hug! The attacking superstar grabs his opponent around the stomach and squeezes his opponent by lifting him off his feet.

BEAST CHOKER

This maneuver starts off like a Front Facebuster, only the victim is held in a backward position by his neck. As the offensive superstar tightens his grip, the pressure on the opponent's neck and back is often too much to take!

BELLY TO BELLY SUPLEX

In the corner of the ring, the attacking superstar can grab his opponent in a Bearhug. Then spinning and falling backwards the attacker can throw the victim to the mat.

BIG PUNCH

When in a tieup, the aggressor will simply grab the opponent's head, reach back to Kansas, and pop the stunned opponent a good one knuckles first upside the head.

BIG WIND-UP PUNCH

A punch with an exaggerated wind-up.

BLATANT CHOKE

Blatantly squeeze the breath out of an opponent!

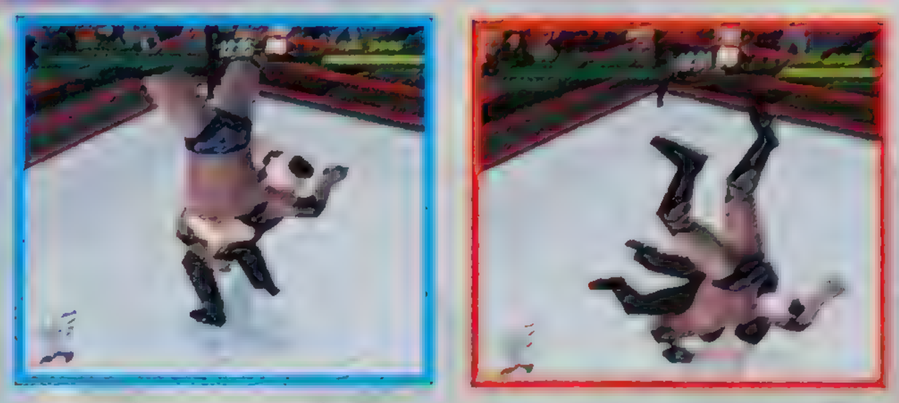
BODY SLAM

Son on body-slam to the ground with the move the attacking superstar picks his opponent up with his lifting arm underneath his crotch, and his other arm placed over the victim's shoulder. Pick them up, invert them, and slam'em!

BOOT TO FACE

With an opponent charging the player, the superstar can lift his leg so that the opponent runs straight into the sole of his boot.

BRAIN BUSTER

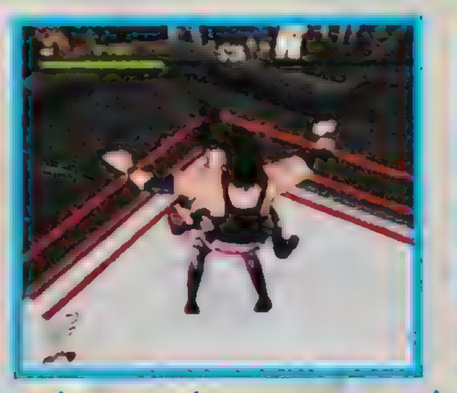


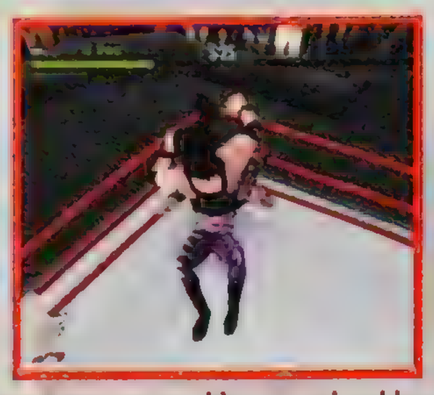
This moves starts off like a vertical suplex, with the victim's body hanging upside down in the air. However instead of dropping the foe backwards, the superstar brings them down in a sitting position—cutting the force of the impact on the top of the opponent's head, neck and shoulders.

BRIDGING GERMAN SUPLEX

Similar to a German buster, only this time the attacking superstar maintains hold of the opponent and bridges his back to attempt a pin

BRONCO BUSTER



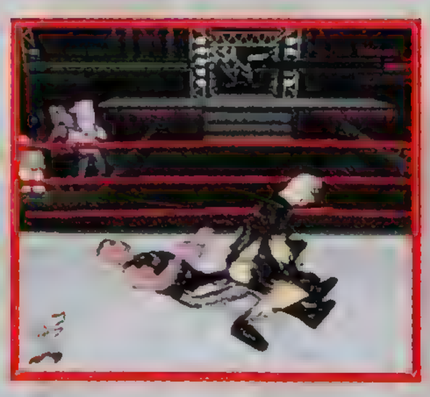


Nothing gets X-Pac into the match more than his wild Bronco Buster maneuver. After flooring the opponent in one of the corners, 'Pac charges from the opposite end of the squared circle, leaps into the air and comes down on the victim's face! Ride 'em cowboy!

BULLDOG

Back to belly with your opponent, the offensive superstar grabs hold of the enemy with a headlock and runs forward. After a few feet of momentum, the attacking superstar jumps into the air—maintaining the headlock—and drives the opponent forward face first into the canvas.

BUTT DROP



The attacking superstar can leap and smash an opponent with his butt.

CAMEL CLUTCH

With the opponent face down on the canvas, the attacking superstar sits on his foe's back. In that position, the superstar locks both of the victim's arms on his knees, then uses both of his arms to grab hold of the opponent's chin. To finish the maneuver, the superstar pulls back on the head, placing pressure on the foe's neck and back.

CHARGING SHOULDER

Similar to the Avalanche, only this time the offensive superstar comes charging from the opposite corner to deliver a shoulder to the midsection of the opponent.

CHEST BREAKER

Lifting the opponent into a Gorilla Press Slam position, the offensive superstar drops the victim forward onto his braced knee. As a result, the enemy's ribs absorb the force of the drop.

CHICKEN WING

Similar to a sleeper, only the attacking superstar uses the victim's arms to cause severe pain in the opponent's neck and face while applying the move.

CHIN CRUSHER

From a standing position, a superstar caught in a sleeper or standing headlock can escape the hold by grabbing the back of the attacker's head and dropping down to their knees. As a result, the attacker's mouth and chin will be crushed on the back of the opponent's head.

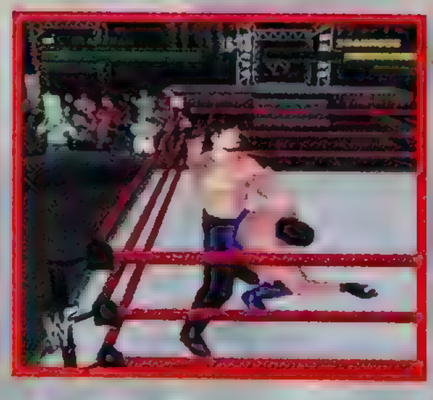
CHOKE SLAM

A favorite of the Undertaker and Kane, the offensive superstar grabs his foe by the neck and lifts them high into the air before slamming them down on their back.

CHOKE WITH BOOT

With an opponent helpless in a corner, an attacker can use his boot against the victim to choke him.

CRANE WING PUNCH



A karate style punch!

CRAZY LEGS KNEEDROP

With the opponent belly-up on the canvas, the attacking superstar comes off the ropes, gets his groove on by shaking his legs and drops a knee to the head of the victim.

CROSS BODY BLOCK

This move is similar to a Body Press, except this move is delivered from the mat instead of off the ropes. This move also ends in a potential pin.

CURTAIN CALL

Also known as Goldust's finisher! Facing the opponent's back, the attacking superstar wraps one arm around their neck, bends them backwards, lifts them into the air and drives them headfirst into the canvas.

FINISHER

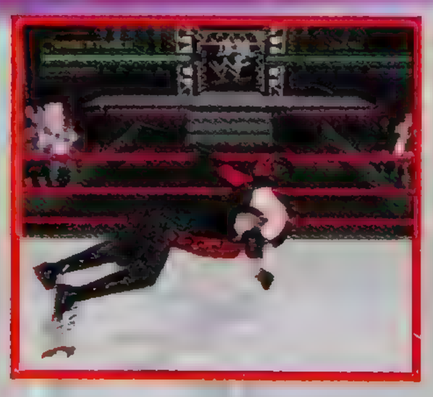
CRUCIFIX

With the opponent's back turned, the attacking superstar wraps both arms around one of his shoulders and his legs around the other and hoists himself onto the victim's back. As a result, the attacker uses his weight to drop the opponent back first to the mat for a pin attempt.

CRUCIFIX DROP

Similar to a Samoan Drop, only this time the superstar caught on his foe's shoulders is on the offense. After using both his arms and legs to hang on to the opponent, the superstar uses all of his weight to pull the victim backwards and onto his back for the pin.

DDT



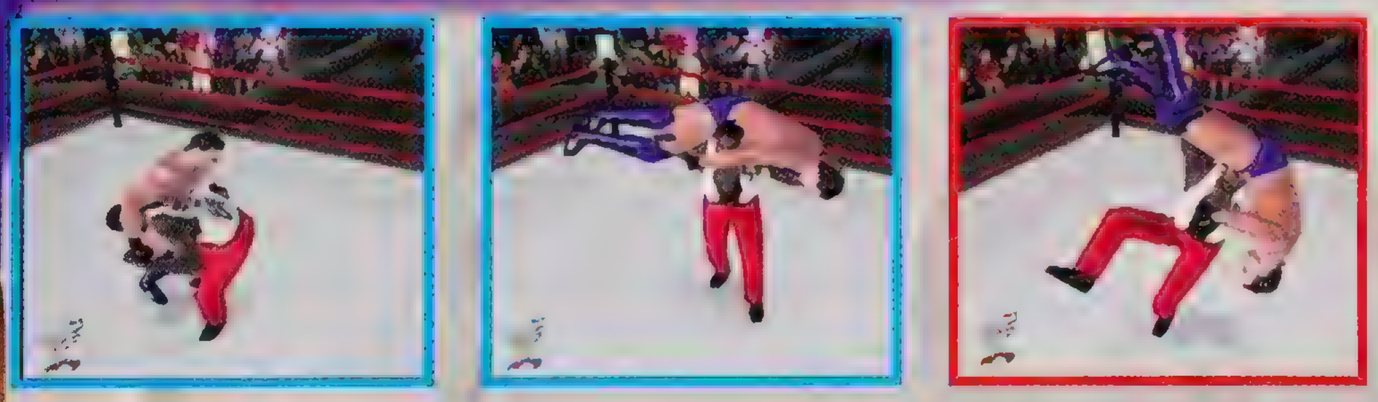
Trapping the opponent's head in a front-facelock, the offensive superstar drives the enemy down to the mat in a seated position. As a result, the top of the opponent's head absorbs all of the punishment.

DEATH FROM ABOVE

Mark Henry's devastating finisher! It's a (very, very) high splash to an opponent on the ground.

FINISHER

DEATH VALLEY DRIVER



The Godfather's finisher! With the victim hanging vertically in the offensive superstar's grip, the superstar then takes a leap and plants his opponent down headfirst into the canvas. Not only does this maneuver jar the foe's head and neck, but also it effectively stuns them for the pin!

D'LO LEAF

This is D'Lo Brown's variation of the Texas Cloverleaf. D'Lo grabs his opponent and lifts them vertically into a Lion Tamer position rather than flipping his victim into a Sharpshooter. The superstar continues the motion until his opponent has completely flipped over the top into a submission hold!

D'LO LEG DROP

This move is simple, but punishing on the opponent. With the victim on the canvas, D'Lo—in a standing position—drops his leg across the face and throat of the enemy with lightening quick speed.

DOMINATOR

Faarooq's finisher! This move actually starts off like a Powerbomb, but instead of planing the opponent on their back the attacker falls forward with his victim. As a result, the opponent is flipped and driven face-first into the mat.

FINISHER

DOUBLE ARM DDT

Mankind's trademark move! The attacking superstar bends his opponent and hooks his arms behind his back. The attacker then slams down hard, driving the opponent's head down into the mat.

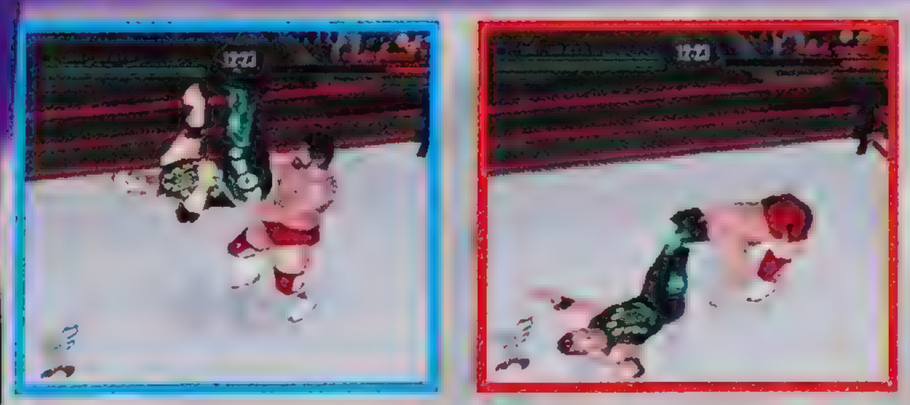
DOUBLE UNDERHOOK SUPLEX

Similar to the Double Underhook Facebuster, only this time the offensive superstar carries through on the momentum into a high, arching suplex—slamming the victim on his back into the canvas.

DRAGON SUPLEX

Grabbing the opponent by the neck, the offensive superstar twists his opponent around so that both the victim and attacker are facing the same direction. Then, the superstar uses the opponent's trunks to lift him into a suplex—dropping his foe on his face, chest and stomach!

DR. BOMB



This Gutwrench Powerbomb maneuver is a favorite of "Dr. Death" Steve Williams. Instead of placing the victim's head in between his legs at the start of the move, Williams unleashes the attack with the opponent's head on the outside of his thigh for more impact!

DOWNWARD SPIRAL

Also known as Edge's finisher! Facing the opponent's back, the attacking superstar wraps one of his arms around the victim's throat, bends him backwards and drives him down to the canvas on the back of his head.

FINISHER

DRIVING ELBOW FROM TURNBUCKLE

An elbow drop delivered from the bottom, middle or top turnbuckle. With the opponent on the canvas, the offensive superstar leaps from the turnbuckle and drives his elbow into the victim's chest, throat or head.

DROP KICK

A two-footed leaping kick to an opponent's chest. This move can be performed while the attacker is standing, running towards his opponent, against a running opponent, and off of the turnbuckle.

DROP TOE HOLD

The attacking superstar drops to the mat using his legs to trip and lock his opponent's ankles, forcing him to fall forward, and become trapped in a Toe Hold.

ELBOW DROP

The elbow drop can be executed from a standing or running position. With the opponent's back to the canvas, the offensive superstar drops his elbow on the victim's chest, throat, head or leg.

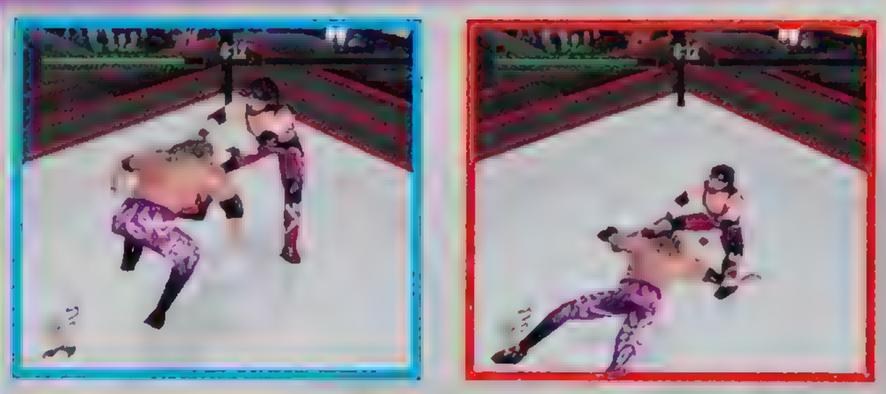
ELEVATED CRAB

Grabbing both of the victim's legs, the attacking superstar uses them to roll his foe on his stomach. Maintaining hold of the legs, the superstar then sits back on his victim—putting extreme pressure on the opponent's back.

ENZIGURI

In the standing position, the attacking superstar jumps up and delivers a quick kick to the back of the opponent's head. This maneuver can be accomplished with the victim to the front, back or side of the attacker.

FACE BUSTER



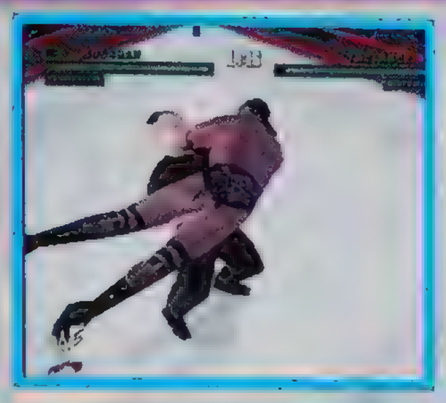
Standing to the side of the victim, the attacking superstar wraps a leg around an opponent's leg, grabs his opposite shoulder for balance and then falls forward with him to drive his face into the canvas.

FALL AWAY SLAM

The powerful Bradshaw's finisher! With the opponent charging the player, the attacking superstar catches his foe in mid-air horizontally, then flips the victim backwards—tossing him to the canvas.

FINISHER

FALL FORWARD SLAM



With the opponent charging the player, the attacking superstar catches his foe in mid-air horizontally, then drives the opponent in the canvas, resulting in a pin attempt.

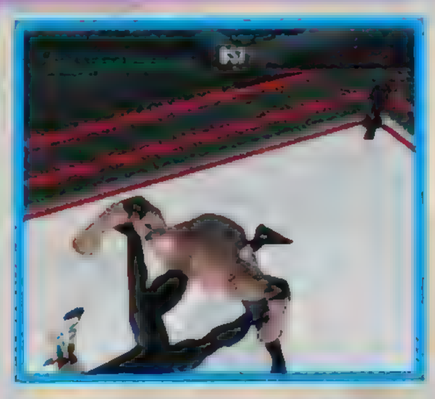
Jeff Jarrett's finisher! With the opponent on the canvas, the attacking superstar takes hold of one leg, spins around, drops down on his back and locks the victim's other leg horizontal to it—resulting in excruciating pain in the knee joints.

FINISHER

FIREMAN'S CARRY

Firemen never knew the anguish this move would cause! The attacking superstar hoists his opponent across his shoulders and then onto the mat.

FIST TO GROIN

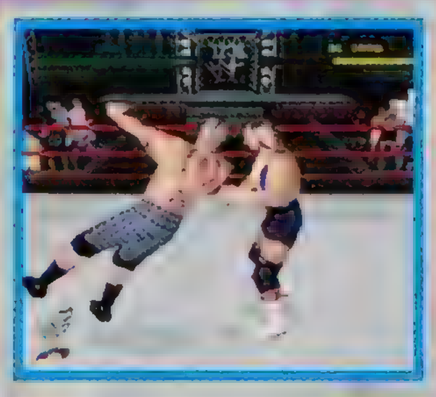


This move is self-explanatory.

FLOAT OVER SUPLEX

The aggressor stand Belly to Belly with his opponent, hooks the opponent's arms under his own, then takes the opponent over his head for a ride.

FLYING BACK ELBOW



The attacking superstar delivers a variation of the back elbow in this move.

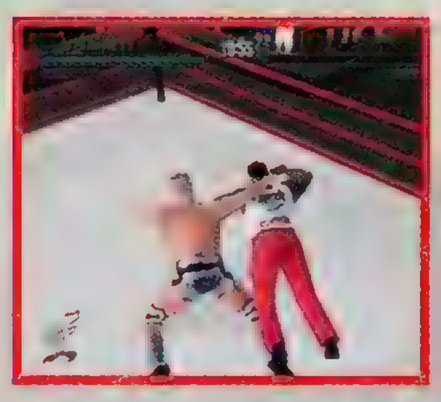
FRONT BACKBREAKER

The attacking superstar grabs an opponent as if to be body slammed, but instead is brought back first, down onto the attacker's knee.

FRONT FACE DDT

Starts off like the Stone Cold Stunner, with the attacking superstar turning his back to the opponent and grabbing their head from behind. However, instead of dropping the victim the attacker runs forward with the enemy and drives their head and neck backward in the fall.

FRONT RUSSIAN LEG SWEEP

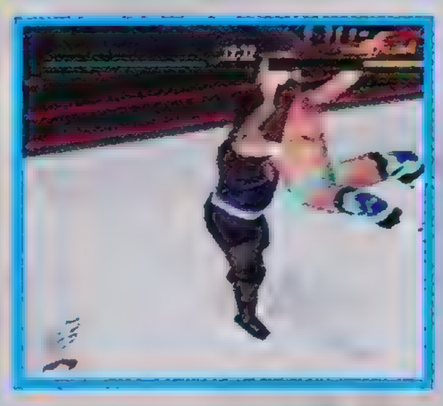


With the two superstars standing side-by-side, the offensive superstar wraps his near leg around the opponent's and uses his arm to take control of him. However, instead of throwing the victim backwards in a regular Russian Leg Sweep, the attacking superstar drives the opponent's body forward, planting his face in the canvas.

FRONT SUPLEX

From the tieup, the aggressor will wrap up his opponent like he's going to take him over in a Vertical Suplex, but instead takes him halfway up, then drops him face first back into the canvas.

FULL NELSON SLAM

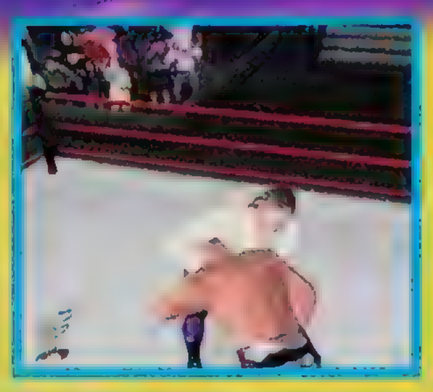


Similar to a Full Nelson, only this time the attacking superstar drives the victim forward and smashes their face on the canvas.

GERMAN SUPLEX

Standing behind the opponent, the attacking superstar grabs his victim around the belly and lifts them up and over—driving the back of their head and neck to the canvas.

GIANT DDT



Gangrel's* finishing move! Similar to a regular DDT, but with much more impact. After locking the victim's head in one of his arms, the offensive superstar uses the other arm to lift the opponent in the air by his tights or midsection—almost into a suplex position. With the victim off his feet, the superstar then drives him straight down head-first to the canvas.

*Gangrel created by White Wolf, Inc. Gangrel is a trademark of White Wolf, Inc. All Rights Reserved.

FINISHER

GODFATHER KICK

A kick move favored by Godfather and D'Lo Brown.

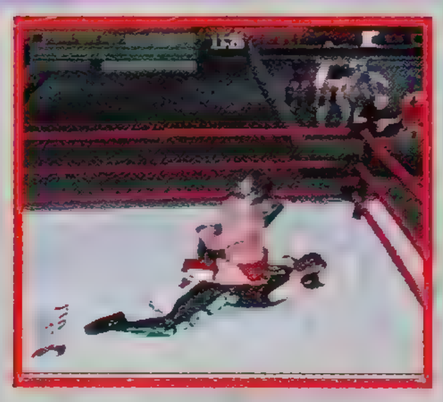
GUTWRENCH POWERBOMB

Instead of placing the victim's head in between his legs at the start of the move, Williams unleashes the attack with the opponent's head on the outside of his thigh for more impact!

GORILLA PRESS SLAM

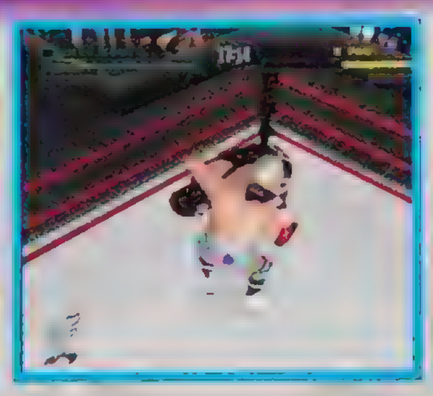
In a standing position, the attacking superstar hoists the opponent high over his head in a press-slam position. Instead of tossing them over, the superstar simply drops them straight down face-first to the canvas.

HALF CRAB



A Boston Crab where the attacking superstar grabs one leg.

HANGING POWERSLAM

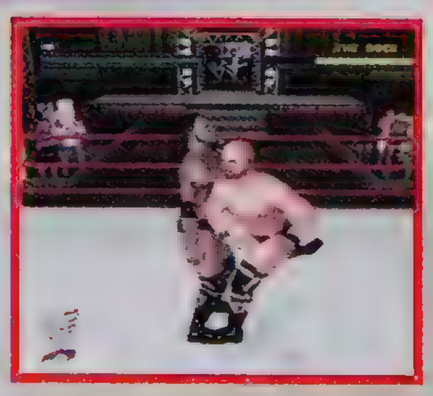


A variation of a regular Power Slam, except the victim is held vertically in the air, allowing all their blood to rush to their head, before they are driven to the mat.

HANGING VERTICAL SUPLEX

Nearly identical to a regular Vertical Suplex, only this time the offensive superstar holds the opponent in the air for several seconds allowing all their blood to rush to their head. Again, the victim is completely prone and unable to escape the hold.

HAYMAKER

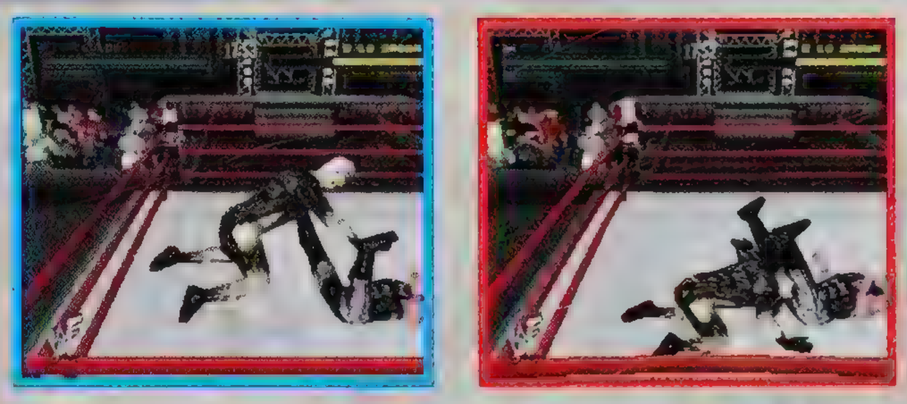


A big punch!

HEADLOCK TAKEDOWN

A takedown to the mat from a standing headlock.

HEAD TO GROIN



This move is self-explanatory.

HIGH ANGLE BACKDROP

This effective takedown has its roots in the world of amateur wrestling. Facing the opponent's back, the offensive superstar wraps their arms around the victim's waist and lifts them into the air—twisting their body overhead and planting them down on the canvas back-first.

HURRICANRANNA

The attacker charges the enemy, jumps up on the foe's shoulders and wraps both of their legs around his neck. Maintaining the leglock, the attacker then flips backward and brings the enemy down headfirst into a DDT type maneuver.

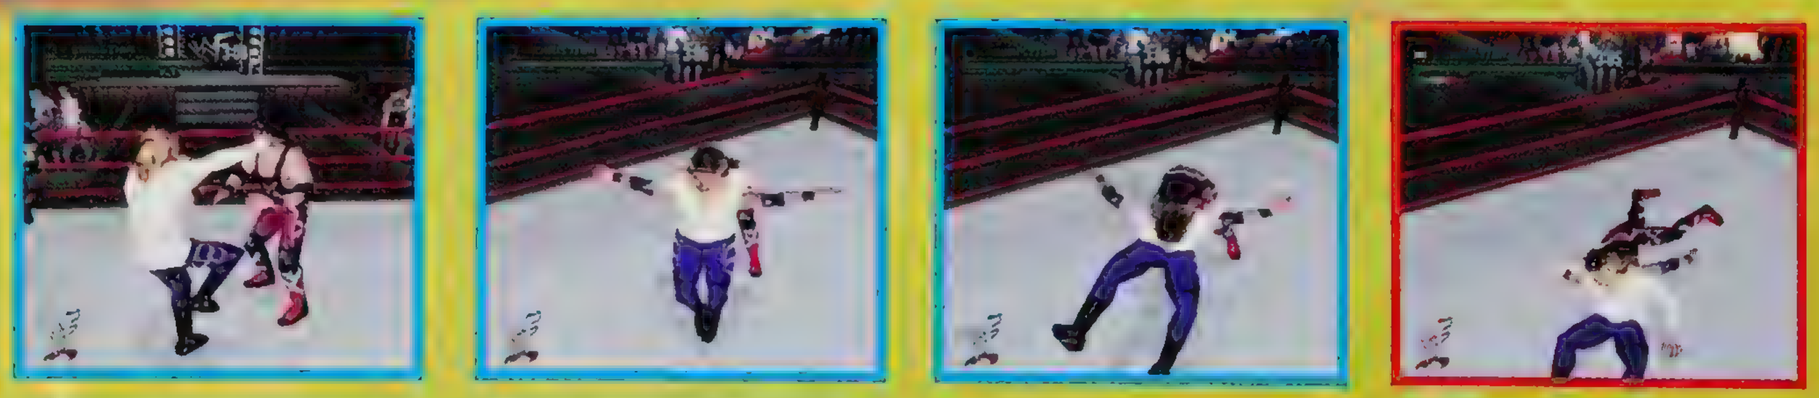
HQ TRAIN

The trademark of the Godfather! The attacking superstar gathers a head of steam and performs a high-speed Splash on his stunned opponent!

INVERTED ATOMIC DROP

Facing the opponent, the attacking superstar grabs the midsection of the victim and lifts them into the air briefly in a Bear Hug maneuver. Then, the foe's crotch area is brought crashing down on the superstar's braced knee.

THE IMPALER



This incredible finisher can nearly snap an opponent's neck! Locking his opponent in a front facelock, Christian—in one quick motion—falls forward and jars his foe's neck backwards. In other words, the superstar goes one way and his opponent's head goes the other!

FINISHER

JAPANESE ARM DRAG

If the opponent's are charging each other, an attacker can use this move to grab the opponent's arm and flip him over and back first onto the squared circle!

JUMP KICK

A karate style jump kick!

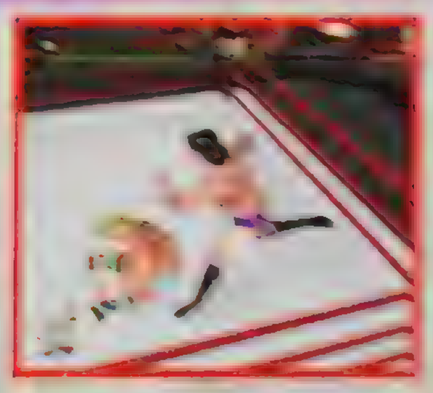
KAMIKAZI HEADBUTT

With the offensive superstar on the top turnbuckle, he leaps off and delivers a punishing headbutt to the victim. This differs from a regular headbutt in that it has much more momentum.

KICK COMBO

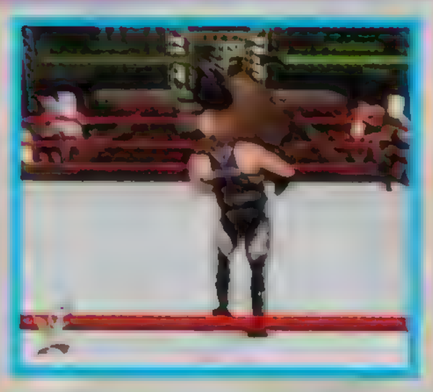
"Lethal Weapon" Steve Blackman's trademark! Facing an opponent on the turnbuckle, the attacking superstar grabs his arm for balance and delivers three swift kicks to the foe's chest of head.

KICK TO SPINE



Some meet boot.

KNEE BREAKER

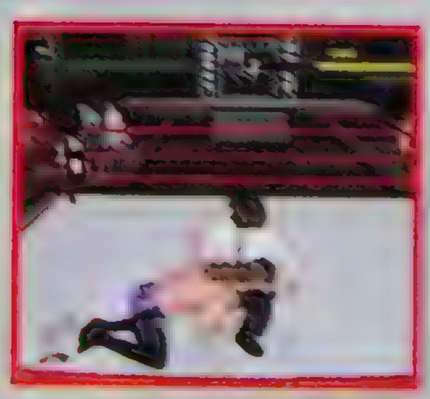


Facing an opponent, the attacker can lock up his opponent folding their legs behind him, and slamming them down to the mat, damaging the knee.

KNEE DROP

With the opponent on the canvas, the attacking superstar delivers a knee to the face, neck or chest of the opponent.

KNEE TO FACE



Facing the opponent, the attacking superstar grabs a handful of their hair, bends the victim forward and delivers a knee to their face! OUCH

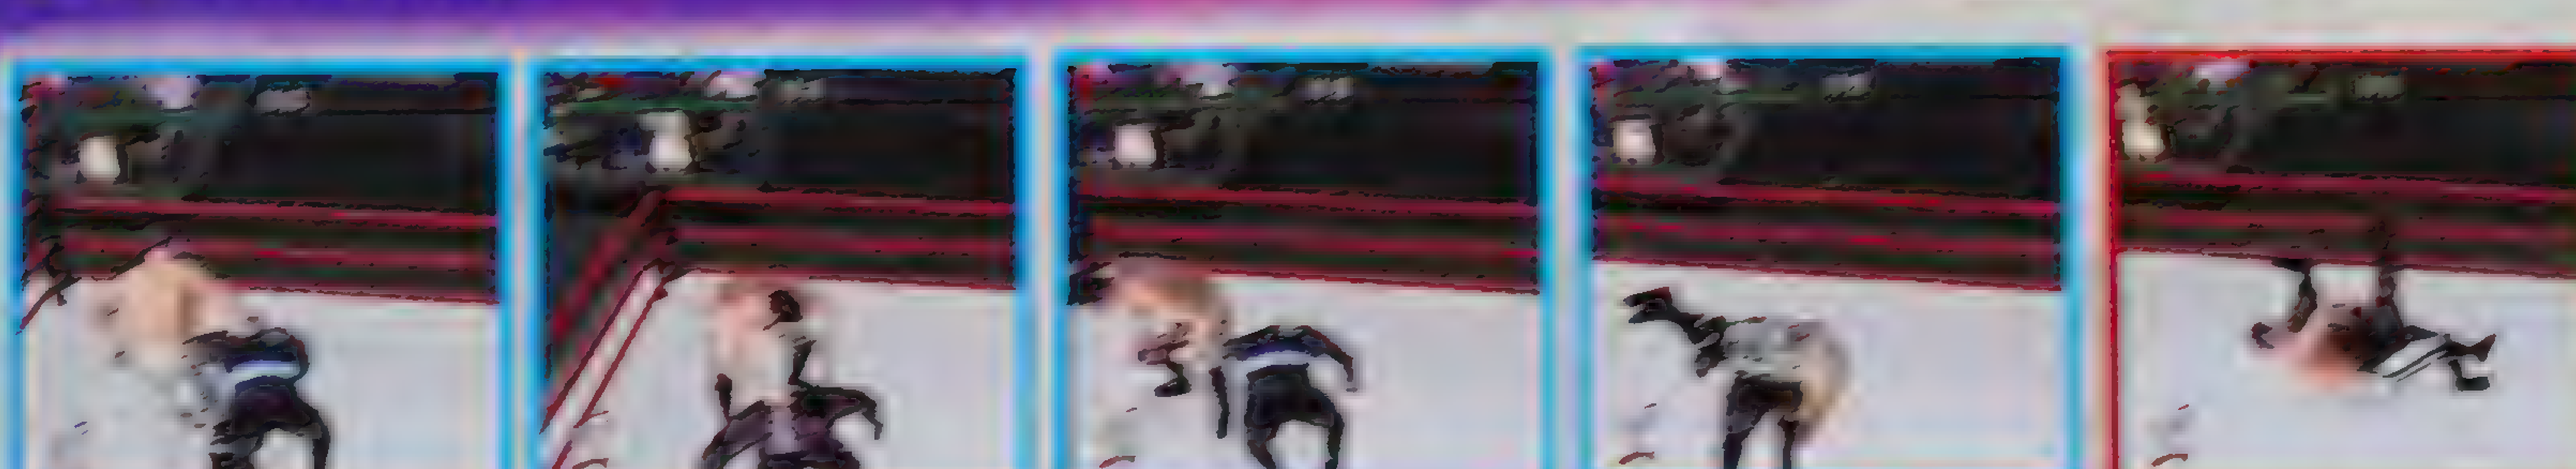
KNEE TO SHOULDER

Standing over the fallen victim, the superstar bends down and drives his knee into the shoulder of the opponent.

LEG DRAG

Similar to an Arm Drag, but this time the attacker grabs his opponent's leg and rolls to the mat, knocking the victim off his feet.

LA MAGISTRAL



Using one of his arms to lock the opponent down, the offensive superstar then toe holds one of his victim's arms to roll them into a cradle pinning position.

LEG GRAPEVINE

Similar to a figure four, only this time the attacking superstar maintains his standing as he wrenches the opponent's knees.

LAYING THE SMACK DOWN

Similar to a DDT, with much more power behind it. The attacker starts off by climbing over the enemies' back in a spinning motion—then grabbing the opponent's neck and bringing them down in the DDT position. As a result, the attacker has much more momentum to deliver the move.

LEG LOCK

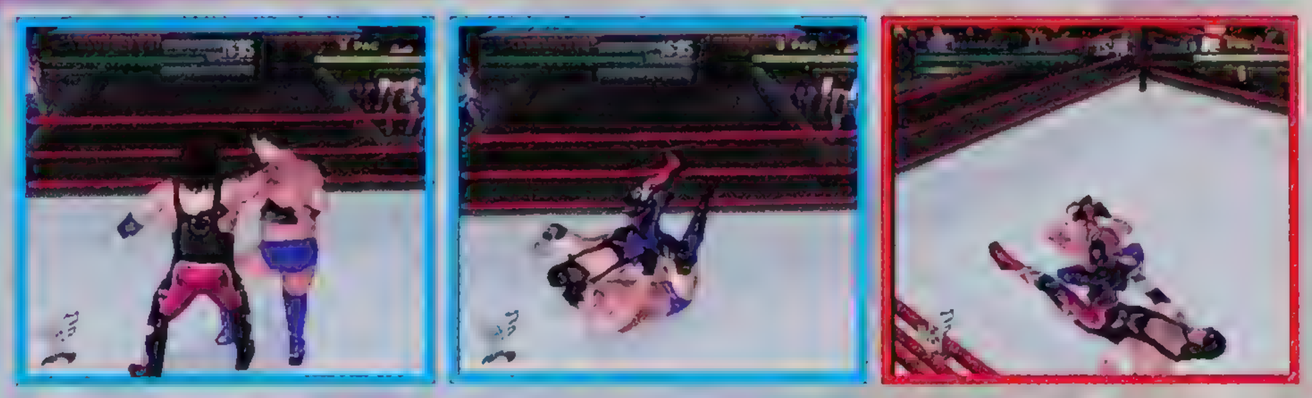
With the opponent on his back, the attacking superstar grabs hold of one of the victim's legs, wraps his own leg around it and wrenches it by twisting it.

LEG SCISSOR STOMP

A favorite of Al Snow! The attacking superstar sticks the opponent's head between his legs, then jumps up and down, wrenching the opponents neck and spine.

FINISHER

LEG STRETCH



In this classic move, the attacking superstar will tie-up his opponent, reach down and hook their leg, then roll through it, coming up with a painful hyper-extension of the opponents leg.

LONGBOW BACKBREAKER

With the victim bent forward, the attacking superstar wraps both arms around the opponent's waist, lifts him and flips the victim onto his shoulder. Maintaining the position, the superstar then applies pressure on the victim's back.

LOW BLOW

Ouch!

LO DOWN

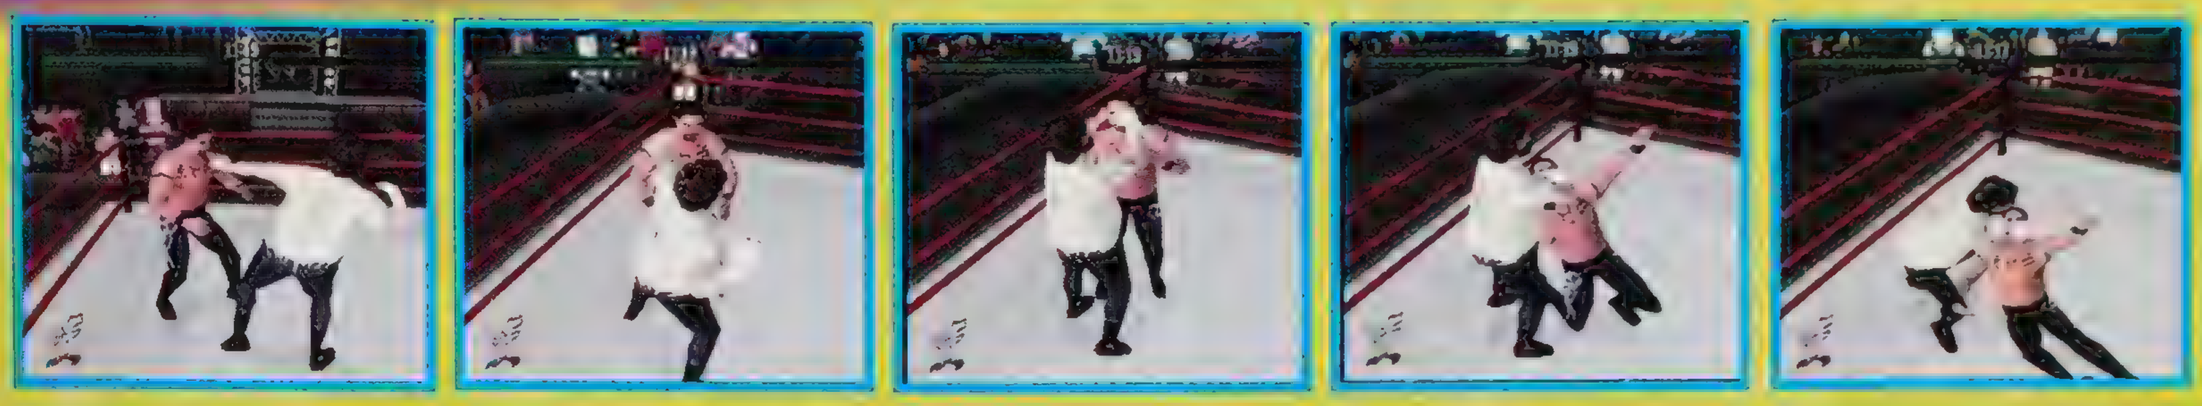
D'Lo Brown's finisher is a variation of a Frog Splash. With the opponent on the canvas, D'Lo climbs to the top turnbuckle and leaps off—touching his elbows to knees before landing horizontally on the victim.

FINISHER

MAFIA KICK

The attacking superstar gives a strong kick to the midsection of their opponent.

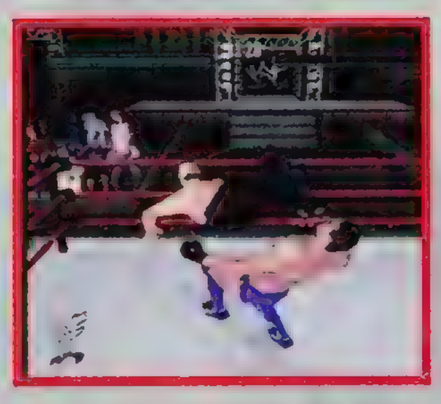
MANDIBLE CLAW



Mankind's finisher effectively paralyzes the opponent, as the superstar jams the index and middle fingers deep into soft tissue under the victim's tongue. Due to the pain effects, the enemy is prone to a pinning attempt.

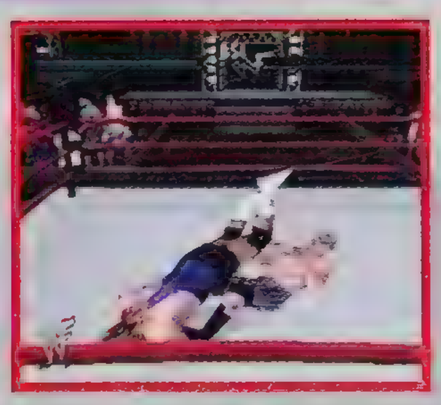
FINISHER

MISSLE DROPKICK



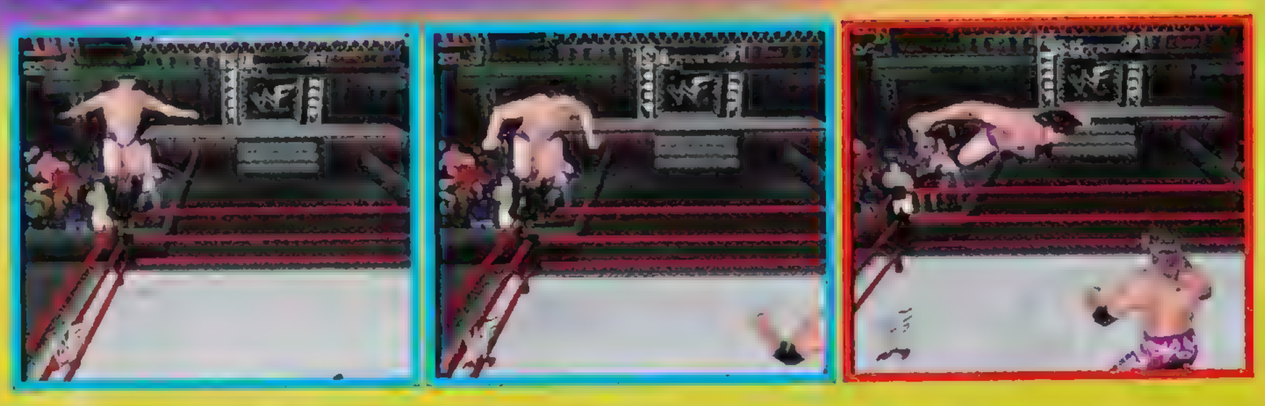
The attacking superstar leaps off the top rope and delivers a drop-kick to the face or chest of his opponent.

MOONSAULT



With the victim on the canvas, the offensive superstar climbs to the top turnbuckle with his back to the opponent. Then with precise balance, the superstar leaps off and somersaults down across his opponent. Now only is the victim crushed under the force, but his wind is completely knocked out of him.

MONEY SHOT



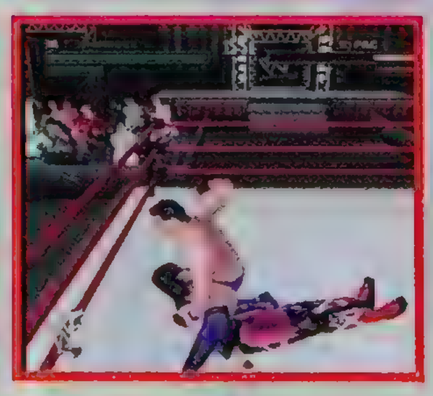
Val Venis' finisher is a devastating splash from the top rope. Taken from a term in his adult entertainment industry, it is the ultimate end to any confrontation!

FINISHER

MOSH PIT

With the opponent facing him, Mosh leaps from the top turnbuckle and lands on the victim's shoulders—as if his was executing a Hurricanrana. However, the superstar rides his opponent down to the mat in a pinning position.

MOUNT WITH PUNCHES



A favorite of Ken Shamrock! The attacking superstar gets on top of his prone victim and punches him silly!

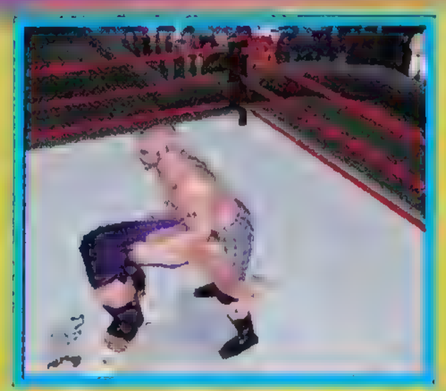
NECK BREAKER

Standing back-to-back, the attacker grabs the opponent by the neck and drops to his butt, driving the victim's neck into his shoulder.

NECK WHIP

While his opponent is on the ground, the attacking superstar walks up to their head, puts him upright into a sitting position, places his knee against the opponents neck & spine, then flips over him, snapping the head of the opponent.

NEW JERSEY NAPTIME



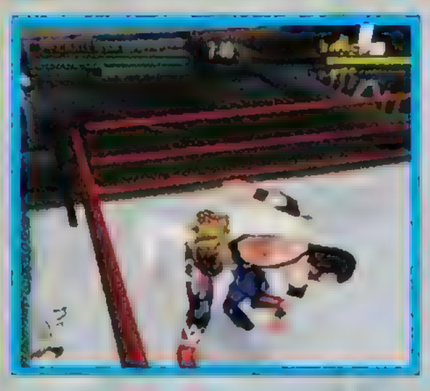
Droz's finisher is a seated Powerbomb! With the opponent's head trapped between his legs, the superstar lifts the victim up in the Powerbomb position, but then drops to his rear—bringing the opponent down in a pinning position.

FINISHER

NORTHERN LIGHTS SUPLEX

This maneuver is similar to the Fisherman's Suplex, except that the victim's leg is not hooked in the process. The offensive superstar's knees are kept bent in the process, allowing for a higher impact. A pinning attempt is possible with this suplex as well.

OCTOPUS HOLD



Like an Abdominal Stretch from Behind, but the aggressor will add insult to injury by throwing his left leg over the opponent's head, adding more "stretch" and pressure to the opponents neck.

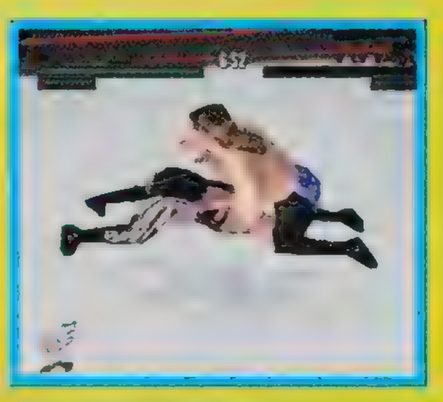
OVERHEAD PRESS

In this move, the attacking superstar picks up his opponent as if to perform a Press Slam, but instead, drops his opponent face first onto to the top turnbuckle.

PAINKILLER

With the opponent to your side, the attacking superstar grabs the foe's arm and drives them down to the canvas. Then, with the victim lying facedown, the arm is twisted behind their back in a submission type armlock.

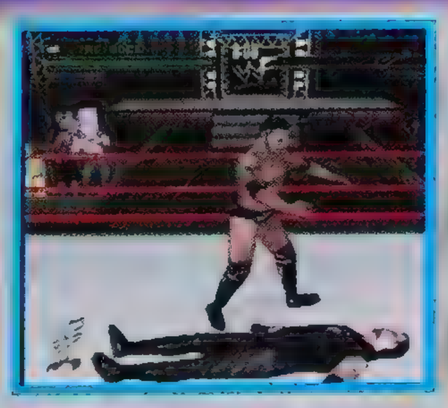
PEDIGREE



Triple H's finisher starts off with the enemy's head caught between the attacking superstar's knees—similar to the start of a Powerbomb. The superstar then locks up both of the victim's arms behind his back and drives them face-first into the canvas.

FINISHER

THE PEOPLE'S ELBOW



The Rock says...drop the People's Elbow by running the ropes over your downed foe and then lay the smack down on them!

PILEDRIVER

The opponent is bent forward with his head locked between the attacking superstar's thighs. The attacker then picks the opponent up by the stomach, lifting him into the air. Then the attacker drives the opponent's head and neck into the mat by dropping into a sitting position.

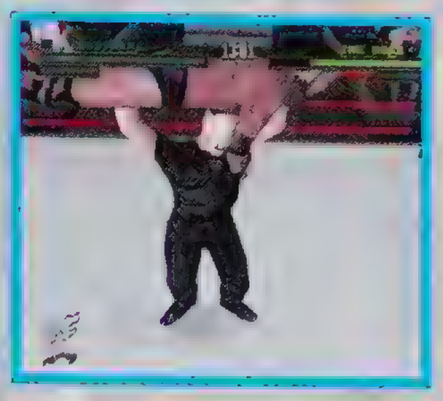
PORN PRETZEL

One of Val Venis' little-known finishing maneuvers. In a standing position, the superstar locks his opponent's legs into a figure four. To increase the pain and make it an effective submission, Val then places one arm under his opponent's chin and pulls up in a front face lock!

POWERBOMB

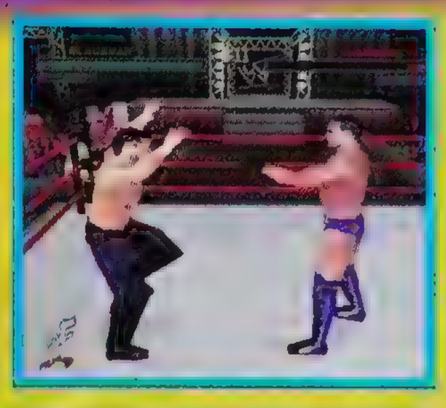
With the superstars facing each other, and the victim bent forward, the attacking wrestler locks his opponent around the midsection, lifts him and then throws him shoulder first onto the mat.

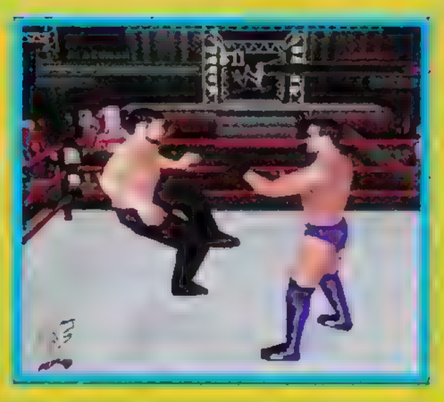
PRESS SLAM

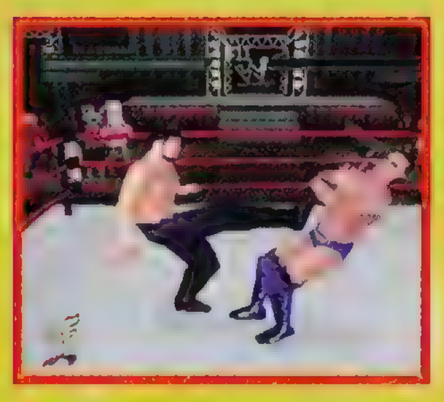


A body slam that's performed after the opponent has been hoisted over the attacker's head. Similar to a Gorilla Press Slam.

PUMP KICK







"Lethal Weapon" Steve Blackman's finisher! With the opponent dazed, the attacking superstar builds up momentum and delivers a kick to the face or chest of the victim.

FINISHER

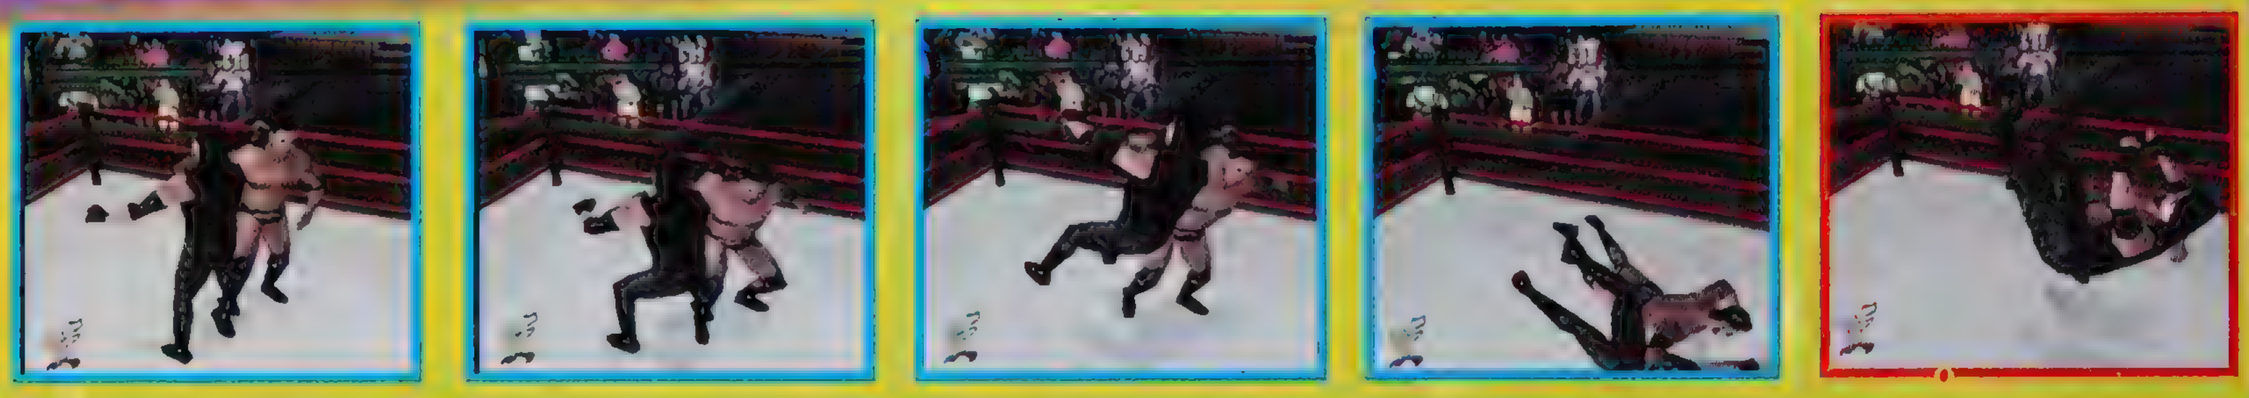
GRAB HEAD AND PUNCH

Grab your opponents head, and give him a haymaker!

REVERSE VERTICAL SUPLEX

With one arm taking hold of the opponent's trunk and the other wrapped around his neck, the offensive superstar lifts the victim high into the air vertically. The superstar then drops the enemy backward in the suplex, adding his own weight to the force of the impact.

ROCK BOTTOM



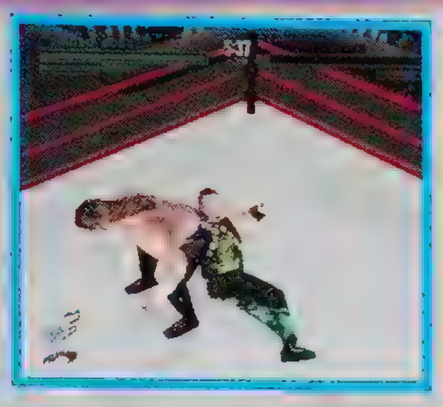
The Rock's finisher is one of the most devastating moves in the game. Facing the victim, the superstar wraps his arms around the opponent's neck and lifts them vertically in the air before driving their back down into the canvas.

FINISHER

ROLLING GERMAN SUPLEX

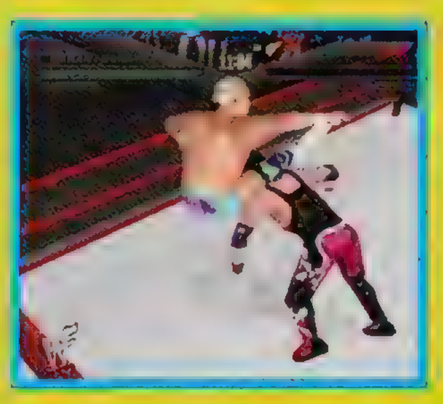
Grabbing the opponent's mid-section from behind, the offensive superstar pulls his victim backward. As a result the opponent goes over the top of his attacker and smacks down head, neck and back first to the canvas. In that position, the offensive superstar then twists his body to get back on his feet and unleashes the same suplex again!

ROLLUP PIN



A rollup pin.

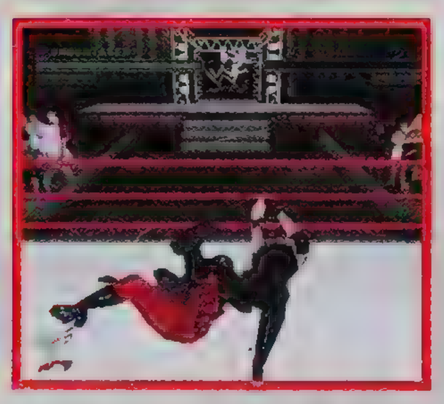
ROCKER DROPPER (FAME ASSER)



This finishing maneuver for Billy Gunn is a high-impact Rocker Dropper from the corner. With his opponent dazed in the ring, Gunn heads to the turnbuckles and launches himself into the air—using the back of his leg to drive the opponent's face into the canvas.

FINISHER

RUSSIAN LEGSWEEP

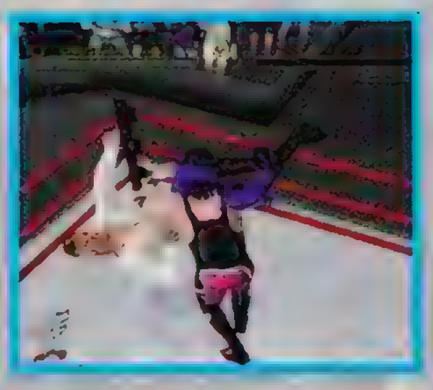


With the two superstars standing side-by-side, the offensive superstar wraps his near leg around the opponent's and uses his arm to take control of him. However, instead of throwing the victim backwards in a regular Russian Leg Sweep, the attacking superstar drives the opponent's body forward, planting his face in the canvas.

SAMOAN DROP

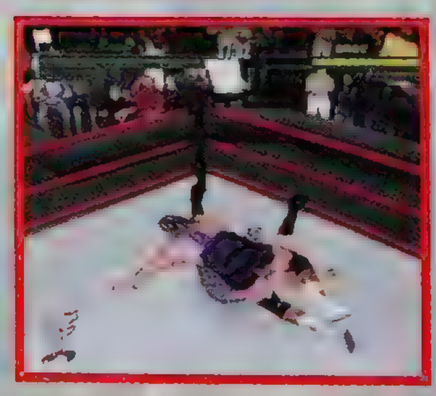
In a standing position, the attacking superstar lifts the enemy onto his back—locking his appendages into place with his arms. Then, the superstar falls backward onto the opponent driving them down on their back. This maneuver is also an effective reverse to the

RUNNING HEAD SCISSORS



Charging your opponent, the attacking superstar jumps into the air and wraps both of his legs around the victim's neck and falls backward, bringing the opponent down to the mat head-first.

SCHOOLBOY PIN



As the opponent is falling backwards from a strike, the attacking superstar rolls up both of his victim's legs and attempts a pin attempt while maintaining his standing.

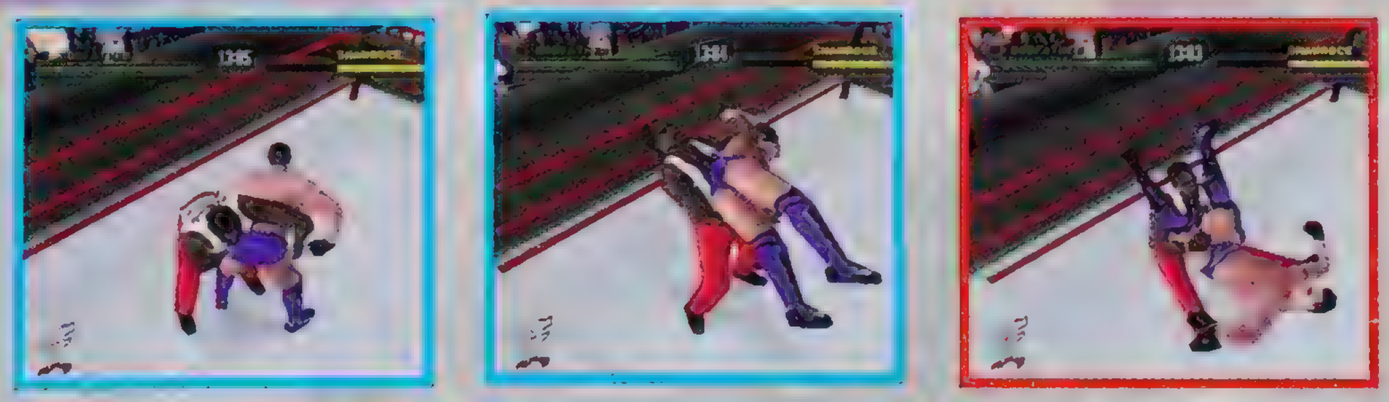
SCISSORED ARMBAR

A classic hold--the aggressor steps over the opponents arm, then scissors it up with his legs, applying pressure to the opponent's vulnerable hyper-extended elbow.

SEATED CRUCIFIX DROP

Similar to a Crucifix Drop, only this time the offensive superstar attacks while his victim is on the canvas. Using his arms and legs to latch onto the opponent's back, the superstar then uses his own body weight to pull the victim backwards and into a pinning position.

SEATED GUTWRENCH POWERBOMB



The attacking wrestler bends his opponent towards him. Then the attacker reaches over and grabs the opponent around the stomach and back. The attacker then lifts the victim into the air and slams him back first to the mat.

SENTON BOMB

A kind of reverse splash from the top rope. With the offensive superstar perched on the top, he jumps off and falls backwards in mid-air, coming down on the victim back first. As a result, the force of the superstar's back knocks the wind out of his enemy.

SENTON SPLASH

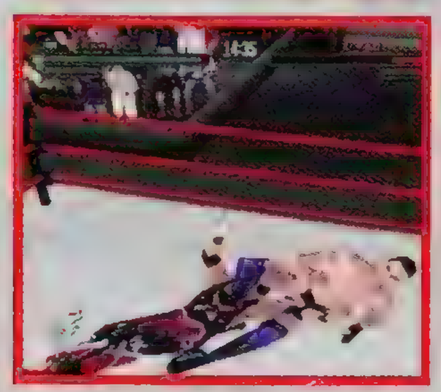
A kind of reverse splash from the top rope. With the offensive superstar perched on the top, he jumps off and falls backwards in mid-air, coming down on the victim back first. As a result, the force of the superstar's back knocks the wind out of his enemy.

SHAMROCK ANKLE LOCK

Ken Shamrock's finisher is one of the most painful maneuvers in the Federation! With the victim face down on the canvas Shamrock takes hold of their lower leg, lifts it in the air and uses his massive arms to twist the opponent's ankle to the point of breaking!

FINISHER

SHORTARM SCISSOR



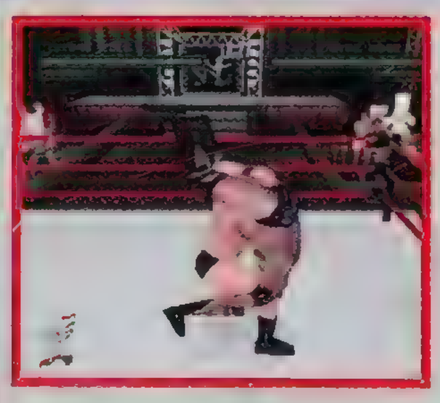
A classic hold—the aggressor steps over the opponents arm, then scissors it up with his legs, applying pressure to the opponent's vulnerable hyper-extended elbow.

SHATTERED DREAMS

A favorite finisher of Goldust, the victim is positioned in the corner and held into place by his own legs. The superstar then gets a running start from mid-ring and hauls off with the unkindest of kicks to the opponent's crotch.

FINISHER

SHOULDERBREAKER



Instead of delivering a Power Slam when the attacker picks his opponent up over his shoulder, the attacker can perform the Shoulder Breaker. In this move the attacker will slam the raised opponent's shoulder onto his braced knee.

SHOULDER TACKLE

Charging an opponent, the attacker can deliver a football-style shoulder tackle to his opponent. This can be done in the middle of the ring, or against an opponent leaning against the turnbuckle.

SHOOTING STAR PRESS

This move starts off with the opponent on the canvas and the attacking superstar on the top turnbuckle with his back to him. Then, the superstar leaps off with a somersault—at one point falling headfirst to the ring. At the last minute, he twists his upper body upward in order to land in a splash position on the enemy.

SHUFFLE SIDE KICK

A karate-style side kick to an opponent's midsection.

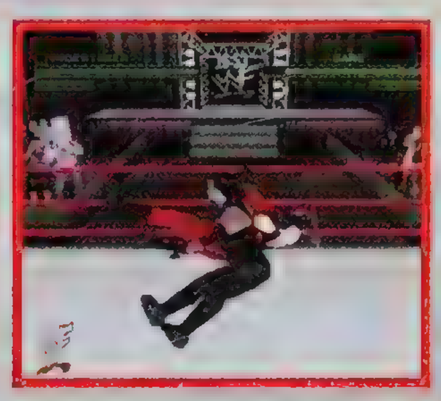
SIDE BACKBREAKER

Grabbing his opponent by the waist and hoisting him into the air, the attacker pivots and brings the victim face-up. Then the victim is dropped sideways onto the attacker's braced knee, crushing their ribs.

SIDE BELLY TO BELLY SUPLEX

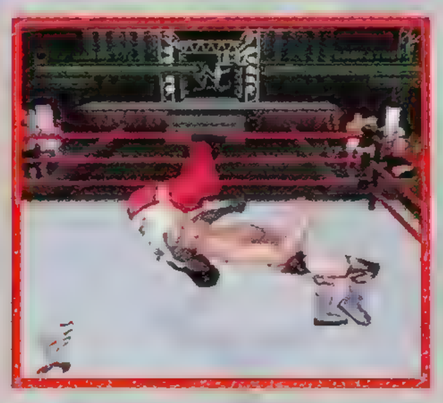
Side-by-side with the enemy, the attacking superstar locks his arms around the victim's mid-section and lifts them backwards. Instead of dropping them on their back, the foe takes the full force of the maneuver on their side.

SIDE SLAM



Instead of performing a Side Back Breaker, the attacker drops the victim straight down onto the mat back first.

SINGLE ARM DDT



With the victim bent forward, the attacking superstar places one of the opponent's arms behind his head, hooks the other and drives the foe down to the canvas on his head.

SKY TWISTER PRESS

Off the turnbuckle onto a standing opponent, the attacking superstar hops up onto the turnbuckle, then jumps backward, twisting in mid-air to cross-body-block his opponent.

SIDEWALK SLAM

The Big Bossman's finisher! This move involves whipping the enemy into the ropes and then catching them in a Bear Hug position—effectively stopping their momentum. Grabbing the foe around his knees, the superstar then hoists them into the air and drives back first into the canvas.

FINISHER

SKY HIGH

D'Lo Brown uses this variation of the Powerbomb to perfection! With the opponent's head locked between the his knees, the superstar hoists the enemy high up over his head and drives them in a sitting position down head first in a Powerbomb for the pin.

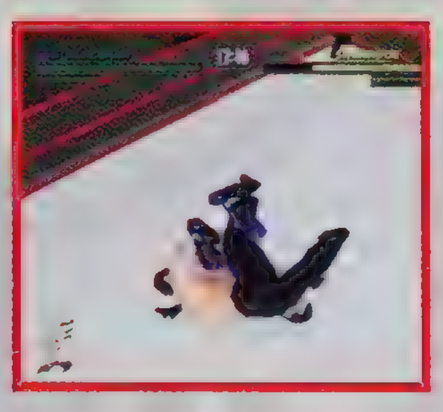
SLEEPER

One of many submission holds, the Sleeper is performed by getting the attacker getting behind the opponent and wrapping there left arm tightly under the victim's chin. The left arm is braced by the right arm, which is placed by the opponent's right ear. This move cuts off the blood flow to the brain, eventually rendering the victim unconscious.

SLEEPING NECKBREAKER

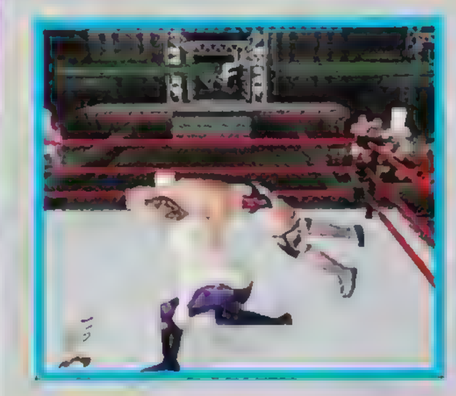
Bending the victim forward, the attacking superstar wraps his arm around the opponent's neck, uses the other to take hold of the foe's arm, and twists his body—nearly snapping the neck.

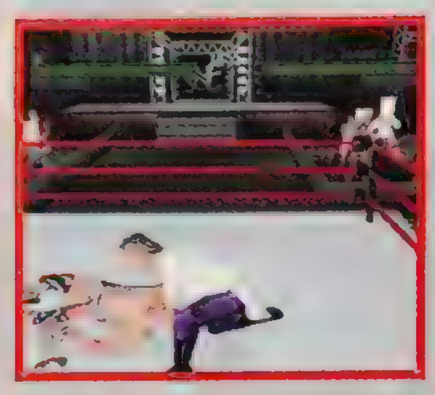
SMALL PACKAGE



An effective pinning maneuver, the superstar on offense takes his opponent to the canvas and locks up his arms and legs. As a result, the enemy's shoulders are held in place—resembling a package--for the three-count.

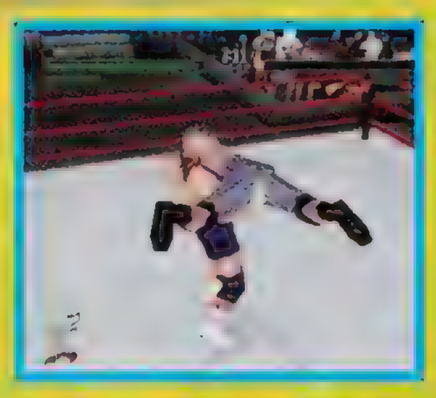
SNAPMARE





The attacking superstar, standing in front of the opponent, grabs him by the neck, and flips him forward onto the mat back first.

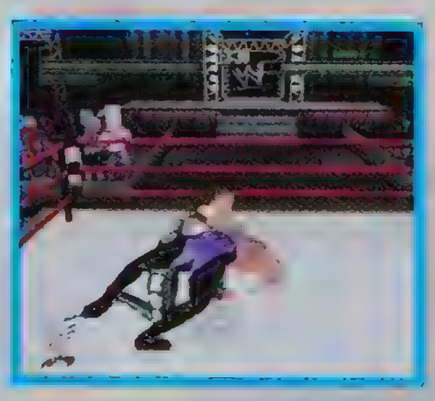
SNOWPLOW



Al Snow's finisher starts off by lifting the opponent in a body slam position. However, instead of releasing the foe Al drops down in a seated position—driving the victim's head down vertically to the canvas and effectively knocking them cold!

FINISHER

SPINAL TAP



A favorite of Road Dogg's! After performing a Snapmare, Road Dogg finishes the move off with a kick to the lower back of his opponent!

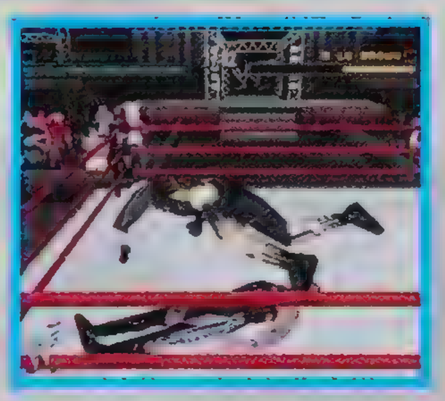
SPINEBUSTER

This devastating maneuver can be accomplished either in a standing position or by whipping the opponent into the ropes. Facing the victim, the superstar hoists his enemy vertically in the air by the back of his legs and then drives their back into the canvas.

SPINNING KICK COMBO

X-Pac's martial arts skills come into play as the superstar stuns his victim with two kicks before hauling off and flooring the opposition with a vicious spin kick to the head.

SPINNING SPLASH



Perched on one of the turnbuckles of from a standing position, the offensive superstar then takes a leap at his victim—twisting his body in mid-air before crashing down on the opponent. As a result, the momentum of the superstar's spin results in more of an impact.

SPLASH

This vertical body press involves the offensive superstar climbing to the turnbuckle (or launching himself over the apron). In mid-air, the superstar then extends his body vertically and crashes down onto the opponent.

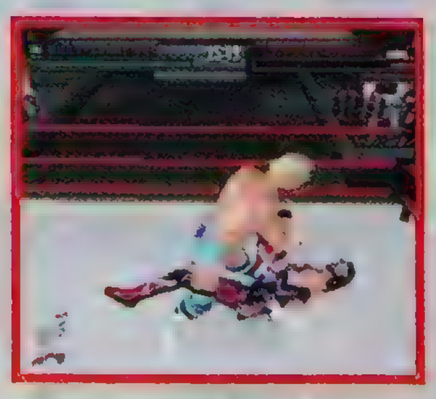
SQUEEZE HEAD

Squeeze an opponent's head. A migraine is bound to happen!

STAGE DIVE

With the opponent facing him, Mosh leaps from the top turnbuckle and lands on the victim's shoulders—as if his was executing a Hurricanrana. However, the superstar rides his opponent down to the mat in a pinning position.

STEPOVER TOEHOLD



With the opponent on his back, the attacking superstar grabs one of the victim's legs and twists around to face his foe—wrenching the knee in the process.

STF

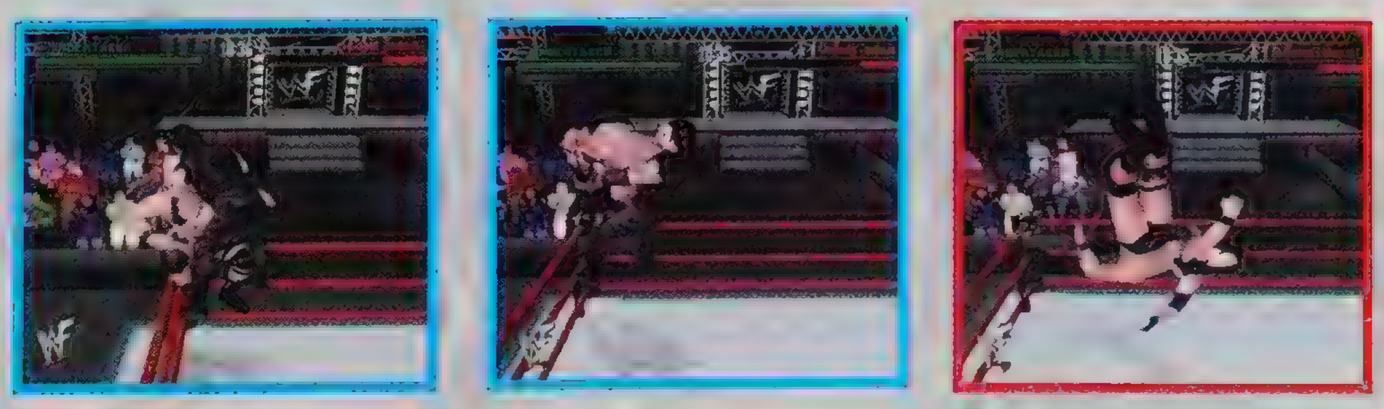
Similar to the Tequila Sunrise. With the opponent on the canvas, the attacking superstar wraps his leg around the opponent's, drops forward and pulls back on the victim's head with a chinlock.

STONE COLD STUNNER

This is Stone Cold Steve Austin's finisher! Facing the opponent, the superstar delivers a kick to the midsection, stunning them and forcing them to bend forward. Then, Austin turns with his back to the foe, grabs the back of their head to his shoulder and then drives them down in a seated position. As a result, the opponent's neck is snapped back against the force of his shoulder.

FINISHER

SUPERPLEX



With the opposition sitting helplessly on the top turnbuckle, the offensive superstar mounts either the second or top turnbuckle along with his foe and delivers a high-impact vertical suplex.

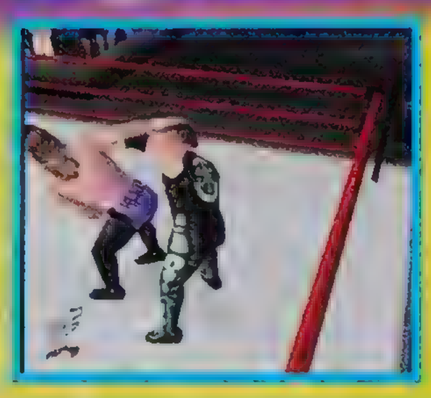
STUMP PULLER

The opponent, sitting helplessly on the mat, has his legs grabbed by the attacking superstar who is standing behind him.

SURFBOARD

With an opponent on their belly, the attacking superstar places his leg in the small of the victim's back. Then wrapping up the opponent's arms and/or legs, the attacker pulls the arms toward the legs, and the legs towards the head.

STRETCH ARMSTRONG



Road Dogg uses this maneuver as his finisher on occasion! Similar to a Pump Handle Slam, the superstar hoists his foe up in a body slam position—then uses the opponent's own momentum so they "fall away" backwards and land on the canvas.

FINISHER

SWIVEL MOUNT PUNCHES

With the opponent dazed, the attacking superstar spins around to build momentum and hauls off with a knockout punch to the victim's face.

SWINGING DDT

From either the bottom or second turnbuckle, the offensive superstar grabs his opponent in a front-facelock and, in one swift motion, jumps off and spins his victim around—adding extra impact to this powerful variation of the DDT.

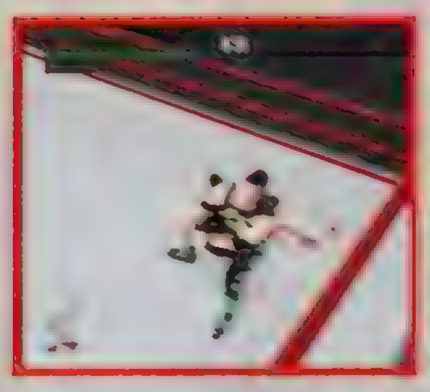
TACKLE WITH PUNCHES

With this move, the attacking superstar charges his opponent and tackles him football style. While driving the opponent into the mat, the attacking superstar will unleash a flurry of punches on the victim.

T-BONE SUPLEX

Starting from a tie-up, the attacking superstar steps to the side of opponent locking into his ear but not for much pull-up. The superstar grasps his opponents midsection then picks up the opponent and falls backwards like a normal suplex with the opponent getting suplexed sideways and folded up like an accordion.

TEXAS CLOVERLEAF



Similar to the Sharpshooter, only this time the offensive superstar wraps the victim's legs up with both of his arms. Added to the painful move is that one of the opponent's legs is bent sideways resulting in the hyperextension of the knee.

TENNESSEE JAM

"Too Sexy" Brian Christopher's finisher is a punishing leg drop delivered from the top turnbuckle. With the victim dazed on the mat, Christopher leaps from the top and uses all of his momentum to smash the opponent's throat, chest or face with his leg.

FINISHER

THREE POINT STANCE

The attacking superstar drops down into a football three-point stance, and charges his opponent, ultimately spearing him.

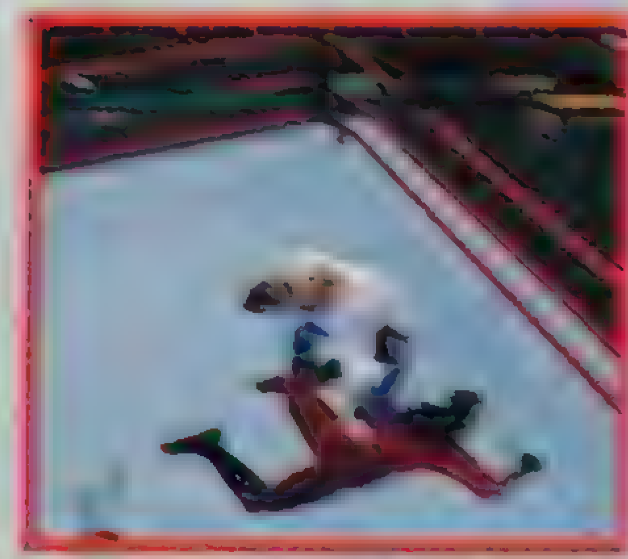
THROAT TOSS

Similar to a Choke Slam, but instead the opponent is thrown instead of slammed

THRUST TO THROAT

With fingers clamped tightly together, the attacking superstar drives his fingertips into his opponent's throat.

TOEHOLD HALF CRAB



A variation of the Boston Crab where the attacking superstar only attacks one leg.

TREE OF WOE

The attacking superstar puts the victim upside-down in the corner, tying up his legs in the turnbuckle. As a result, the opponent hangs helplessly—allowing the opposition to charge from the opposite end of the ring to deliver a knee or boot to the foe's midsection or face.

TURNBACK STAMPEDE

This powerful maneuver is a variation of a regular Body Slam, only in this instance the victim is hoisted onto the offensive superstar's shoulders and brought into a corner. Following a charge across the ring, the superstar jumps and uses his body weight to drive the foe into the canvas.

TURNPOST SLAM

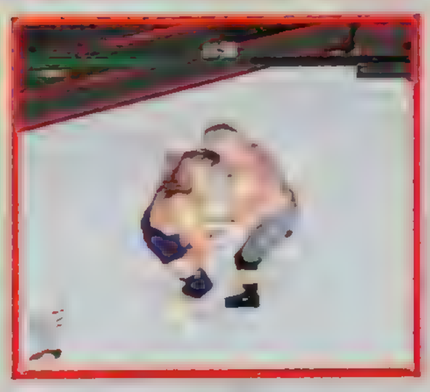
When the move, the opposing superstar is turned

TOMBSTONE PILEDRIVER

The Undertaker's finisher! It's a much more vicious form of the piledriver! Hoisting the enemy up inverted belly to belly, their head is placed between the attacking superstar's legs in a reverse piledriver position. The offensive superstar then drops to his knees, driving the victim's head into the canvas.

FINISHER

UNDERHOOK SUPLEX

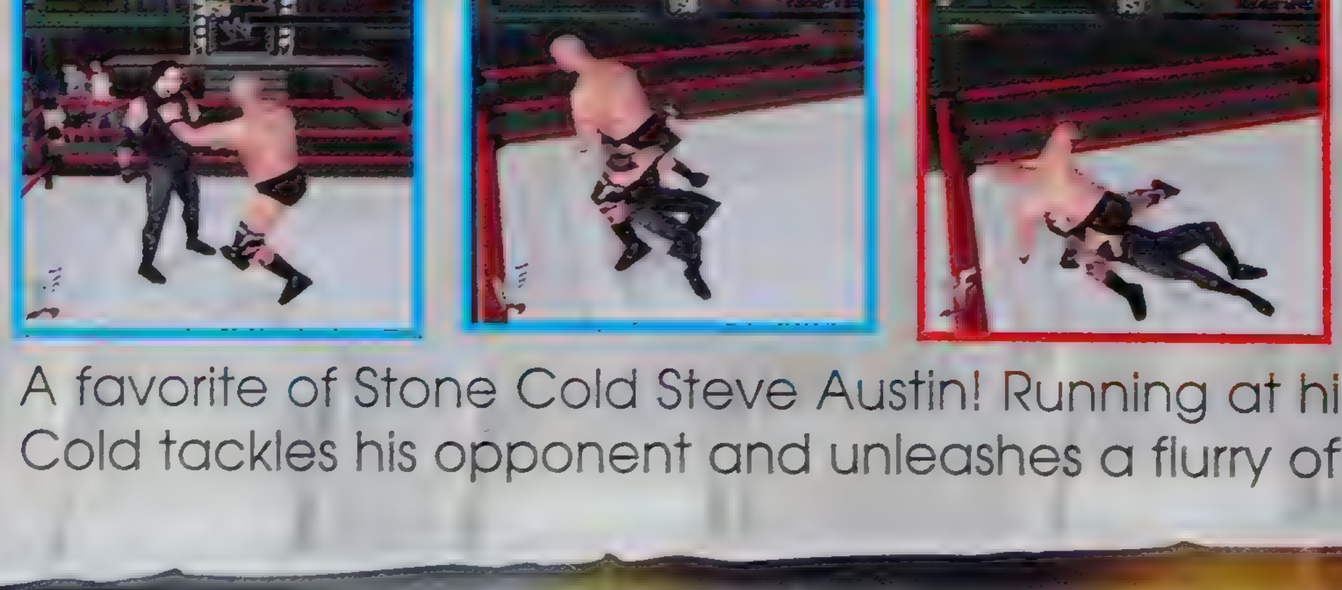


With the opponent bent forward, the attacking superstar places the victim's head between his thighs, hooks both his arms and lifts him up and over—driving his back into the canvas while maintaining hold of the arms.

EUROPEAN UPPERCUT

Facing the opponent, the offensive superstar grabs the victim by the back of his head and delivers a powerful forearm to the foe's face.

VERTICAL BODY PRESS



A favorite of Stone Cold Steve Austin! Running at his opponent, Stone Cold tackles his opponent and unleashes a flurry of punches!

VICTORY ROLL

A sliding roll-up in which the victim is trapped and rolled into a pin.

WALK THE ROPES ARM WRENCH

After locking the victim's arm and twisting it, the attacking superstar climbs to the top turnbuckle, walks the length of the top rope while maintaining hold of the arm and comes down across the opponent's back or arm with a fist.

WISHBONE LEGSPLITTER

The attacking superstar grabs a prone face-up opponent's legs and pushes their legs out, stretching their personal, private area. Ouch!

CHAPTER 03

SECRETS

You haven't learned everything?YET! Sure, you know what each superstar can do-but there are some secrets and hidden strategies in the following pages that will let you layeth the smacketh down on your opponents without breaking a sweat.

Don't go turnin' those pages yet. Relax? get hooked on phonics! (It's easy, just sound out the vowels.) Study up on as many of the following tips as you can before getting another Attitude fix. You'll find out that it takes more than droppin' the opposition on their head to make it to the championship!

TIPS

1.) Memorize the moves for your wrestler! Remember, the moves are different for each wrestler.

2.) The more different moves you use, the quicker the crowd gets on your side. If you do this, you can inflict up to FOUR TIMES the damage! If you rely too heavily on one move, the crowd will quickly turn against you. So watch out! When the crowd is on your side, the superstars' name turns a dark blue.

3.) Dodging your opponent is a good thing. You can't hit what you can't catch!

4.) Turnbuckle moves are high risk, but worth it because of the amount damage they cause!

5.) A lower damage move will always succeed before a higher damage one. But remember to vary your attack.

6.) If you're getting the pants beat off of you, get out of the ring! This will give you the opportunity to recover some of your lost strength.

7.) The crowd bonus is huge! Don't ignore what the crowd is doing in the background!

8.) Make sure and soften up your opponent so you'll have the tie-up advantage! You'll be able to pull off more damaging moves!

Gameplay:

What makes WWF Attitude so unique is the plethora of moves at your disposal. Each wrestler has dozens of moves, including their very own trademark and finishing moves!

Get Ready, Get Set, Fight!

Similar to WWF War Zone, you have three basic button commands: punch, kick and tie-up. Using these buttons in conjunction with the directional pad, you are able to execute any number of moves, with damage ranging anywhere from "1" to "9" points. For example, a "1" point move would be a punch, a "9" point move would be a piledriver.

Let's say you've just begun a match, facing off in the squared circle against your opponent, and you want to get in the first shot. Remember, your opponent has the same thing on his mind and he's looking to put the hurt on you. You decide to punch your opponent, which has a damage of "2" points, while he attempts to execute a DDT, which has a damage range between "4" and "6" points. The simple punch that you decided to execute will win out, simply because a lower damage move will always beat out a higher damage one.

One thing to remember... If you constantly use one move, such as a punch from the ready position or a hip toss from the tie-up position, the artificial intelligence in the game (or your human counterpart) has the opportunity to respond with a higher damage point move. So if you constantly punch your opponent, he has the opportunity to counter your low-damage move with a high-damage, high-risk maneuver. So be aware and vary your move selections.

Now that you've caused some damage, you're probably wondering what to do next. Well, here's where WWF Attitude's high-octane gameplay comes into focus. While pummeling your opponent, you'll notice that the name of the WWF Superstar that you are using is a specific color. For example, when the name of your superstar and their power bar is the color green, you are in top-shape. You can try just about any move you want to on your opponent. So go crazy!

As you continue in your match, you'll begin to notice that the power bar and the names of the superstars begin to change color. This is due to the damage that you are taking and inflicting on your opponent. When the power bar and name color has changed to yellow, this indicates that the superstar is becoming tired. It will become more difficult for your opponent to escape holds, submission moves, and also prevent you from performing moves.

Finally, when your opponent's power bar has turned red, he's in serious trouble! You will now be able to perform your superstar's individual trademark and finishing moves. But, your oppo-

The Tie-up!

Just like in WWF War Zone, the tie-up plays an important role in gaining the upper hand on your opponent. In WWF Attitude when you cause your opponent damage, the small box in the upper corner of the superstar you are controlling changes to different shades of blue. As the blue color of your tie-up meter lightens, the better your advantage in performing moves.

Mayhem In and Out of the Ring!

Here are some tips to use when you are inside or outside of the ring:

1.) Toss your opponent over the ropes with an Atomic Whip from the behind position. You'll simply pick him up and toss him over the top rope onto the floor!

2.) If your opponent is near the ropes and you're outside the ring, you can try to drag him out of the ring by using any of the buttons (kick, punch, and block).

3.) If you're in the ring and your opponent is on the outside apron, you can punch or kick your opponent, knocking him to the floor. Or you can run at him and knock him over using the ropes.

DOES THE CROWD LOVE YOU ... OR NOT?

Crowd response plays an important role in how you perform in the ring. This is where your superstar's charisma rating comes into play. The crowd will verbally show their opinions of you while you're performing in the ring. If you are performing the same moves over and over, the crowd will become agitated and show their displeasure by booing. Your opponent's name will start to glow, and his power bar will start to increase. The boring move that you are constantly performing has become useless. So vary your moves since the more high-risk/high-damage the better.

Depending on which superstar you select can get away you with certain things. If you select a superstar with a high charisma rating–a fan-favorite–you can still win with a less exciting match. If you select a superstar with a low charisma rating–a rule-breaker–you will have to work that much harder with high-risk moves to keep on the path to victory!

Stunned Opponents!

If you are on a roll, and your opponent is taking lots of damage, he will eventually become stunned. In the early moments of a match, your opponent won't be stunned too long, so there's a slim chance that you can perform a high-risk move on him. A lot of the simpler moves from the ready position work at this point of the match.

When your opponent is stunned and their power bar is yellow or red, later in the match, you can perform more complicated moves from either the ready position or from behind. Also, don't forget that when your opponent's power bar is red, you can perform your superstar's trademark and finishing moves.

Talk Trash!

If you hit the punch and tie-up buttons, your superstar will taunt your opponent. Taunting an opponent and then performing a high-damage point move will produce up to two times the damage! Working the crowd to the point where they are chanting your name, you can taunt your opponent and then perform a move that will cause up to four times the damage! Make sure and use taunts wisely, because you can be caught in an extremely vulnerable position if you aren't careful!
